Local Briefs To Our Subscribers

Storm-battered streets and snow drifts in all sections of the Associated Newspapers' circulation areas have posed serious problems for our newspaper boys, girls and staff. They are trying their best to get the job done.

Because of the unusual winter obstacles such as waist high snow, some of the newspaper delivery personnel have not been able to deliver the paper on time.

Subscribers who receive our newspapers through the mail also have been receiving the paper late due to mechanical problems which are in the process of being corrected.

We are sure the inconvenience will be temporary, and we ask for your patience and understanding.

Berry says he's resigning

Citing that his long years of service have taken its toll and that he wanted to spend more time with his family and loved ones, Wayne County Road Commissioner Michael Berry announced yesterday that he plans to resign his post.

Berry said that he intended to submit his resignation to the county commissioners this week.

Class reunion

Members of the Belleville High School Class of 1972 are being sought to help organize the 10-year reunion.

Grads interested in helping can contact Carol (Ruff) Lockrey at 439-2694, or Tony and Diane Ellis at 487-0805.

On their honor

Mayor William Oakley (at right) greeted a couple of handsome Boys Scouts and their Scoutmaster last week to present them with the City of Romulus' official proclamation honoring Boy Scouts of America. The scouts read in that proclamation the Mayor urging all citizens to support the organization and specifically lauded the "national youth movement to 'Save Our American Resources (SOAR)... for the Better Life... Through Conservation.'"

City, HUD to enter talks on $70,000 expansion plan

Mayor William Oakley asked for and received authorization from city council last week to negotiate a long lease with the Department of Housing and Urban Development to add improvements at the cost of $70,000 to HUD's existing offices on Beverly Road.

Those improvements will come in the form of a storage garage to its existing complex.

The authorization came after a long debate which resulted in councilman Pete Bergeron offering the motion to approve the Mayor's recommendation, then withdrawing the motion and finally abstaining from the vote.

Bergeron came under attack by councilman Jimmie Raspberry who pointed out that the freshman councilman is a member of the Housing Commission and that under state laws he could possibly be in violation of the existing laws.

Raspberry asked for a legal opinion regarding a conflict of interests.

Bergeron countered that he had no personal interest in the project and didn't see "how I would be in violation of anything."

What the council had before it was a request from Mayor Oakley asking council to permit the city to negotiate a lease with HUD.

In his written communique to council, Mayor Oakley said:

"As you know, the Romulus Housing Commission has been granted by HUD modernization funding to be utilized in making improvements to their offices and residential units. One of the improvements involved the construction of a storage facility on the vacant lots adjacent to the office on Beverly Road.

"In researching the legal description of the site, it has been discovered that the ownership of the property lies with the city, rather than the commission. This factor has created a problem with the grant approval, and HUD has requested that the city deed the subject parcel to the commission.

"Because it is not just a simple problem to deed city owned property, we arranged a meeting with HUD officials, Housing Commission members and myself to discuss the issue. The most feasible solution is to enter into a long term lease agreement.

"The city would therefore maintain ownership (title) and the housing commission would have use of the property. HUD officials have indicated that this is a satisfactory solution from their standpoint. Because this would enable the housing commission to obtain the grant and improve their property, I recommend the lease agreement."

Bergeron told council that he agreed with the Mayor's recommendation but would abstain from voting in order not to impede the mayor's plan.

"For the welfare of this community," said Bergeron, "I will therefore abstain from voting."

Raspberry said that "this office site is the property of the city of Romulus and is under the jurisdiction of the Romulus Public Housing Commission which operates autonomously from the city.

"Therefore, the city doesn't and will not receive any tax revenue such as water & sewer, real estate, and garbage pick-up.

"Thus, why don't we negotiate with HUD to sell the property outright, since HUD has invested $150,000 prior to this transaction?" Raspberry concluded.

10 enter race for Van Buren board post

And now there are 10.

That's the number of candidates who have gathered to seek the Van Buren Township Board vacancy created by the resignation of Fred Domen.

The candidates seeking the job are: Ed Rush, Hugh Betts, David Halman, Richard Edwards, George Roberts, Jack Lawson, James Elias, Ralph Eccles and Daniel O'Brien.

The deadline to submit "letters of intent" was 5 p.m., Wed., Feb. 11. The township board members are expected to go through the potential candidates' qualifications and credentials and come up with two or three finalists who will appear before the board for a question-and-answer period.

"We'll be using the week of Feb. 14 for interview of the candidates and that will be done by the full board," said Pat Cullin, township supervisor. "All interviews will be conducted in compliance with the Open Meetings Act and obviously will be opened to the public."

The board has 45 days to find a candidate. If the trustees fail to arrive at a consensus candidate, then the Governor's Office could step in and make the choice for them.

Comcast to tie Romulus, Van Buren systems Cable TV network 'will be bigger and better'

With the Romulus and Van Buren cable TV franchises in their possession, Comcast Cablevision will try to coordinate the two systems in "into a bigger and better system," according to Don Ivey, public relations director for Comcast.

"We are tying the Romulus system into the Van Buren system," Ivey informed the Van Buren Board of Trustees. The trustees had asked Comcast officials for a progress report.

"It means a bigger and better system than if Van Buren or Romulus had built alone," Ivey continued. "Van Buren will, however, have customers served before Romulus.

Romulus had awarded the franchise to Comcast last December after months of controversy, while Van Buren has been patiently awaiting the completion of its system.

Belleville, however, chose to select Omnicom of Plymouth to construct that city's cable TV system and it will be hooked up later this month. But Belleville is a smaller area and community than Van Buren which engulfs the city.

Ivey informed the Van Buren board that its company expects to have the first customer hooked into its system sometime this summer.

"Preliminary construction (of the Van Buren system) was started in December and was halted in January by the Wayne County Road Commission because they stated we needed a permit to use the right of way to reach the telephone poles," said Ivey. "The permit process took between six to 10 weeks and at a fee of $2,500.00.

Ivey said that his company should have known that, "but apparently our engineers, used to working in Macomb County, didn't. We requested a letter from the Road Commission stating permit and fees necessary so we could send them a check. The letter hasn't come, but I'm sure that everything will be in order by next week."

Ivey said that he expects Comcast to resume construction sometime in

Council OKs new agreement with Burroughs

The City of Romulus' financial department may soon spell relief B-U-R-R-O-U-G-H-S.

Ironically, it is the same company that caused the department employees many a headache in the past.

The controversial Burroughs B-80 computer system, which has caused the Financial Department more than its share of headaches, may finally become history.

Upon Mayor William Oakley's recommendation, City Council last week approved an amended agreement with Burroughs that could apparently solve the problems the city has had in the past with the computer system.

However, although the council voted 5-1 to accept the negotiated agreement, there was at least one councilman who had some reservations about the document.

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry attacked Paragraph 8 of the agreement on the basis that it violated the public's right to know.

That paragraph literally states that the city of "Romulus agrees not to disclose to any third party information regarding this agreement without the express written consent of Burroughs provided, however, that Romulus shall not be prohibited from making disclosure hereof to the extent required by law."

Councilman Raspberry told his colleagues that he viewed the controversial paragraph as "a restraint and the suppression of vital information."

"If someone should ask me if we had problems with their computer, am I not supposed to say anything? Is that correct?" Councilman Raspberry asked Mayor Oakley.

Mayor Oakley replied: "That is how I understand it. The paragraph gives Burroughs an opportunity to save face. But, I can't speak for someone else. I have pointed out that if we attempted to change computers now we may encounter deeper problems."

"I think the best bet is some sort of compromise because if we go to court, we will start all over again with this aggravation," Mayor Oakley added.

Councilman Barry Baumann questioned Treasurer Beverly McNally if she thought the new agreement and the offer would solve the city's problem and she replied: "Yes, I do. Burroughs, finally after many months of negotiations, admitted that their original system had some problems, but they have come up with what I feel is a solution — and if we decide to humiliate them they could take back their offer."

Burroughs' amended agreement provides for the company to install a back-up printer (A9249-4350 LPM Printer) at no additional charge and, "if after 100 days from installation Burroughs and Romulus reasonably agree that said Printer can't handle Romulus' printing requirements, Burroughs will provide and install an additional Line Printer at no additional charge."

Burroughs also stated in the amended agreement that "title to the B 80 system presently on loan to Romulus shall pass to Romulus upon execution of this transaction" Raspberry concluded.

Mayors' Exchange program deleted

Delete the "Mayor's Exchange" out of Michigan Week.

Because of rising costs and unemployment, Mayor William Oakley urged City Council to forego the Mayors' Exchange part of the annual program but to continue its participation in the other activities.

Council voted unanimously to accept the Mayor's recommendation.

Michigan Week this year is scheduled for the week of May 17. The drawing for Mayors Exchange pairings is traditionally held in Lansing during the State Legislative Conference of the Michigan Municipal League. This year the MML meeting is scheduled for March 24 at the Lansing Civic Center.

Mayor Oakley told council because he is usually on the other side of the exchange, he would like to receive some input on the question.

"As you know I'm not here during the exchange," Mayor told council, "and I've heard that there isn't much participation from the people of Romulus. I think we can do without the exchange taking into consideration the economics."

Councilman Jimmie Raspberry didn't agree with the mayor.

"I see it as an asset," Raspberry informed the mayor. "I think we have some money budgeted for this, and there is some valuable socializing between the people of this community and our guests. I feel we should continue our participation."

Councilman Alan Lambert asked the mayor if he was suggesting that the city pulled out of the entire Michigan Week program or just the Mayor's Exchange.

"We're still going to have those pertinent programs such as high school students taking over city offices for a day and other program — I feel that the Mayor's Exchange isn't worth it."

Council agreed unanimously.

Historic mission

Township Historic District Study Commission, created the monopoly-type game - local stores and businesses replace the traditional Boardwalk and Park Place designations. Mrs. Hall made the initial purchase of the copy of the game. Panel to probe removal of 2 county commissioners Decision on whether appropriate charges and procedures exist for removal of two Wayne County Road Commissioners has been postponed by the General Government Committee of the County Board of Commissioners.

The committee was asked to consider the possibility because Road Commissioners Michael Berry and Grace Hampton approved a six-year labor contract with the Road Commission executive staff which some allege is improper and a violation of the intent of the new county charter coming into effect in January, 1983.

Under the contract, those covered by its provisions would be protected from possible job changes allowed by the charter.

However, in their meeting on Feb. 10, the committee members decided to await the outcome of a pending lawsuit on the issue being heard by visiting Circuit Court Judge David C. Vokes. The suit was filed by County Commissioner George F. Killen, State Senator John C. Hertel and George E. Ward and Justine Barnes, respective president and vice-president of the Charter Commission which drafted the rules and regulations for the new guide for governing Wayne County.

Killen is also sponsor of the resolution, considered by the full Board on Jan. 21 and referred to the committee, which would authorize the investigation.

Members of the three-member Road Commission are appointed by the County Board of Commissioners which can discharge the Road Commission with a majority vote.

Also, Killen and the three other plaintiffs last month successfully sought a temporary court order restraining ratification of the labor contract, but that was lifted by Vokes and the contract is now signed by both the Road Commission and members of the new Association of Road Commission Administrators.

Vokes heard arguments from both sides on Feb. 10, but made no final decision.

In postponing the issue in the General Government Committee to wait for that decision, Commissioners Ervin A. Steiner, Jr. and William J. Runco urged against pursuit of possible removal.

Expected decision on sign revision scheduled for Feb. 23 board meeting

By SUE BACHAND
ANP Staff Writer

Canton Township businessmen decided it was time to be heard—and heard they were as they crowded the Canton Township Hall meeting Tuesday evening to explain their plight to members of the Township Board of Trustees.

The board had placed a proposed revised sign ordinance on the agenda for the evening and many businessmen expected approval to take place at the meeting.

Board members, however, decided after extensive testimony to offer their decision at the Feb. 23 meeting.

In general, the new ordinance will allow larger, higher signs for businesses in the township. The new ordinance would allow tower signs in side or rear yard business areas, 7 feet from the property line to a height of 125 feet. Tower signs are presently not permitted in the township.

In addition, a formula using the square footage of the property as a base would determine the size of the sign permitted for any business, increasing the maximum from 25 square feet to 80 square feet, depending on the size of the area the business occupies.

Local businessmen were strongly in favor of the proposal and attempted to explain the necessity of the revisions to board members.

Bill Fox explained to the board that the apartment complex owners he represented were very concerned with the drastic reduction in occupancy experienced at the Lotz Road complex.

"The daily traffic is minimal and we are presently only allowed a small sign. We have no way of advertising our existence to those traveling on Michigan Avenue," he said.

Donica Keogh told the board that she had been closely following the sign change issue and was very concerned about the situation.

"I'm very upset about my taxes. The major problem in Canton is that we're not attracting new businesses. I've been here two years and I've almost gotten in accidents because I couldn't see signs while I've been looking for area businesses. The residents are carrying 78 percent of the tax base now. We need new business and a number of businesses would come to Canton if they could attract business. A number of my neighbors are also in favor of this ordinance. From a taxpayers point of view, I urge you to pass this new ordinance as it is," she stated.

Mrs. Keogh's opinion was backed solidly by Russell Thurman who told the board that he had spent two years trying to find places in the township. "I thought it was me—then my friends couldn't find places so I tried an experiment.

"I had out of town visitors and I took them for a ride down Sheldon Road. Before we left I gave them six businesses to look for that are on Sheldon Road—they couldn't find any of them," Thurman said.

"Businesses have to attract the customer the first time and then people will go back for good service or prices or whatever. I urge you to pass this ordinance so signs will help us to find places to shop," he said.

VITA seeking help

Volunteers are needed to help other people with their tax returns in the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA) program sponsored by Wayne County Community College, Western Instructional Center, Belleville.

Volunteers provide free assistance to taxpayers who cannot afford professional tax help, particularly those who file short forms and qualify for the Earned Income Credit.

VITA Volunteers will also assist low income elderly, handicapped and non-English speaking individuals. If you are interested in helping these individuals and have experience in preparing income taxes or have taken tax courses, your help is needed.

Persons interested in participating in the VITA program should contact Wayne County Community College, Western Instructional Center, Mrs. Wanda J. Stephen, by calling 699-0200, ext. 1018, before Feb. 22.

Views On Dental Health

By SHERMAN H. KANE, D.D.S.

ASPIRIN — GOOD AND BAD

If your child has a toothache, get him or her to a dentist immediately. If this is not practical, a proper dosage of aspirin will help make him feel more comfortable until you can get to the dentist. However, you should take precautions when administering aspirin.

Make sure your child takes the aspirin with enough water to prevent upsetting his stomach. Aspirin is a systemic drug; it relieves pain only after it has entered the bloodstream. So make sure it gets all the way down with plenty of water. Never place the tablet on the painful tooth or on the gum or let it dissolve in his mouth and ask him to swallow it around the aching tooth. The aspirin can irritate the tissue seriously.

Never crush aspirin and place it between the cheek and the gum. Aspirin and related compounds are a common source of burns of the oral cavity. White lesions can develop where the medication touches the cheek or gum. The tissues will become painful and the white cauterized areas may be removed leaving a painful raw, bleeding area.

Friends pay final homage to police chief

Belleville's 'top cop' was devoted to his job

More than 500 friends and relatives paid final homage to Belleville Police Chief Jerry Remus on Saturday.

Remus was eulogized as a man devoted to his work and his family; a man who served his community and God well.

"He was a person you respected not only for his badge, but for the person he was," said Sgt. Willard Dockter, who worked with Chief Remus for the past 22 years. "He was a personal friend and a very pleasant person to work with. I think his death has shocked many of us in these parts."

Chief Remus was found dead last Saturday in the garage of his home. The Wayne County Medical Examiner has ruled that death was caused by carbon monoxide poisoning. State Police are continuing their investigation.

Sgt. Dockter went to the Remus home when Chief Remus didn't show up for work.

"He was always on time and if he had somewhere else to go he would report in first," Sgt. Dockter said. "I went to the home and entered the garage. Jerry was on the floor and his van's motor was still running."

Funeral services for Remus, 52, were held from the Roberts Funeral Home. A mass was said at St. Anthony's Church in Belleville and interment was in Michigan Memorial Park Cemetery in Flat Rock.

Rev. Father James DeWitt officiated.

More than 500 friends, relatives and an Honor Guard made up of department heads from the area and surrounding communities attended Saturday's services.

Chief Remus is survived by his wife, Ann, sons, Michael and David and a daughter, Kay. He is also survived by a sister, Joan Bower of Westland, three nieces and one nephew.

Chief Remus was a member of the Michigan Chiefs of Police Association; past member of the Wayne County Lieutenants, Sergeants and Corporals' Association and a life long member of the St. Anthony's Church.

A graduate of Belleville High, Chief Remus was appointed as police chief in July of 1980 which climaxed 32 years on the local police force. He first began serving as a patrolman at the age of 20.

Buried under snow

If the sign wasn't familiar, one would think the scenic photo above was taken in some arctic or northern community. But the scene is Romulus in the winter of 1982. And, buried beneath all that snow is Baum's Funeral Home, located at Bibbins and Goddard. The mountain of snow began to dissipate on Monday as temperatures soared near the 45 degree mark for the first time this year.

They're having a party

The Romulus Jaycees' will be hosting a Millionaire's Party from 12 noon to 1 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 20, for the benefit of the Romulus recreation program.

The party will be held at the Progressive Hall, 11580 Ozga Road. Tickets cost $5 per person and include a chance to win a trip to Las Vegas or $500, a $100 second prize and $50 third prize, two $1 chips and a free drink.

Tickets are available through any Jaycee or through the recreation department, located at Bibbins and Shook roads. For further information call 941-0666, ext. 254.

Proceeds from the benefit will go for the purchase of electronic scoreboards for the softball complex at Elmer Johnson Park.

Awards' banquet on Feb. 27

Who will be Romulus' Business person of year?

Who will be Romulus' "Business Person of the Year?"

That question will be answered on Feb. 27 when the Greater Romulus Chamber of Commerce holds its third annual "Business Person of the Year" Awards Banquet.

The annual affair, a social highlight of the Community, will be held on Sat., Feb. 27th in the Burgundy Room, Knights of Columbus Hall located at 35100 Van Born Road. The big event starts at 6:30 p.m. and will be catered by Matts Catering.

Doug Baum, local Funeral Director, who was last year's recipient, is chairman of the Selection Committee which consists of Bill Simonds, Bilmars Supermarket, who was also the awards' first recipient; Dennis Currier, Michigan Oven; Bill Cox, Farmers Insurance and Bill Logan, Smile Supply Company.

Although more nominations have been submitted this year than both years prior, the committee informed the Board of Directors that its selection was unanimous.

This year's recipient, like the first two, is a well-known and respected member of the community, but will not be revealed until the banquet.

The announcement will be made prior to the dinner, so the recipient's family can enjoy the program. Baum will make the formal presentation during the brief program immediately following the meal.

There will be dancing from 9 to 1 a.m. and will feature the well-known local musical group "Sealed with a Kiss".

The community affair is open to Chamber members, and also friends.

The tickets are $25 each, and the same as last year. For more information and/or tickets call 941-5710. Reservations are necessary.

Postal employees urge you to clear snow from path

The U.S. Postal Service is experiencing difficulty providing mail service to some customers during hazardous weather conditions.

Belleville Postmaster, Patrick J. Tobin said that precautionary safety measures by the public and postal employees will aid in the movement of mail "and more importantly, help reduce employee injuries during hazardous weather conditions."

Local road authorities and customers are requested to keep public roads and private approaches clear to mail boxes during the winter months.

document; Burroughs agrees to upgrade the system with additional equipment or with a memory bank for no additional charge."

Burroughs also agreed to convert the CMS Utility Billing and Accrued Budgetary package. The company said it would replace Romulus' originally installed B 80 system at no additional charge and replace it with a comparable B 80 system upgraded with more sophisticated memory bank.

Romulus ran into problems when it tried to convert to the computer system more than a 1½ years ago. The problems were manifested in "memory lapses by the computer" and breakdowns that caused billing problems. At one point the city didn't have a handle on its financial accounts.

With councilman Fred Block absent from the discussion, council voted in favor of the contract.

By SUE BACHAND
ANP Staff Writer

Vigorously denouncing the Reagan administration with one breath and energetically urging the re-election of fellow Democrats with the next, former Vice-President Walter F. Mondale was warmly received at the Taylor Democratic Club last Saturday.

Mondale, on a campaign swing in the Midwest, spoke enthusiastically to the nearly 500 people assembled at a fund-raiser for U.S. Representative William Ford. Calling the Reagan budget a "disaster" he suggested that the predicted $91 billion dollar deficit spending of the federal budget might well actually be $150 billion. He accused Reagan of telling the American people, "in elegant language, to put up or shut up" at a press conference in Des Moines, Iowa last week.

"Well, I've put up and I'm not going to shut up," Mondale told the cheering crowd.

"For some reason the question keeps coming to me, are you better off today than you were one year ago?"

"Yes, you're better off if you don't borrow money, own a car or own a house or build homes or cars for a living. Yes, you're better off if you're not a worker in this country, or an employer," Mondale stated emphatically.

He told the responsive crowd that nearly 17,000 employers have gone bankrupt within the past year.

"If you happen to fall in that narrow category of Americans who need a car, job, house or own a business, then I'll say you're much worse off this year than you were," Mondale said.

He further criticized Reagan's budget cuts which, according to Mondale, do not provide help for out-of-work Americans for the first time since Hoover was in office.

"Large numbers of unemployed workers are now traveling around the country seeking jobs. A person who loses his job leaves his community, his church, neighbors, his home and goes looking around the country for a job. That doesn't have to happen, Mondale said.

The former Vice-President has been rumored as a potential Presidential candidate in 1984, and he is apparently already doing some campaigning.

"The President tells American people that the newspapers are full of want-ads if they want a job. He's saying it's the workers fault and that Americans are lazy.

"Well I read a different paper. One in which a Kansas City Post Office offers 60 jobs and 9,000 people show up to apply. Don't worry about Americans being willing to work. I know the workers of this country as well as anyone, and I never met an unemployed worker that didn't want a job," the 54-year old Mondale said.

He further accused the Reagan administration of destroying the programs most needed in the country today.

"America's future is determined in the first grade and the present powers are saving programs for our children. All across the board they have savaged programs to provide for our future.

"The student loan program which would send auto-workers kids to college is threatened," he added.

"The issue is fairness, deep and profound. These economic policies are mean spirited. Do we really have to go to our sick and elderly citizens and raise their bills?"

"Do we really have to go to school children and say no more school lunches?"

"Do we really need to go to kidney patients on dialysis machines and tell them no more life support systems?"

"There is nothing more basic to the spirit of this country than fairness. In 1982 the people of Michigan must perceive the issue clearly — and send a strong message to Washington. We will not tolerate indifference in our government," Mondale concluded.

And the winner is...

The Van Buren "Head Start" program got a financial boost last week thanks to a 50/50 drawing which helped raise more than $150 for the project. Above Dale Brincat, treasurer of Head Start policy committee, holds container of entries for 4-year-old Shae Deering who happened to pull the lucky name of Detroit Frank Malicki as the winner. The Head Start Center is located at Quirk Elementary School in Belleville and the program meets Monday and Wednesday for 2½ hour sessions for 3-year-olds; the 4-year-old program meets Tuesday and Thursday, again for 2½ hours. Services for children include individualized education studies. Further information may be obtained by telephoning 697-1400.

The worst winter of the century couldn't have come at a worst time. With mass unemployment, which translates into depleted state revenues and less gas and weight taxes, will mean road surfacing on most local and county roads will have to be delayed.

That's the word from Thomas H. Brown, State Rep. from the 37th District and John Woodford, from the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT).

So, beware of the potholes—they're going to be waiting for you.

Brown said that "The weather conditions we have experienced this winter with the heavy snows and icy conditions of the road surfaces has required extra expenditures to local, county and state government. This comes at a time when the gas and weight taxes are reflecting decreased income."

John Woodford addressed the decreased revenue in his report on November 19, 1981. In that report he stated that:

"State revenues for work on Michigan's highways, roads and streets and other transportation decreased $55.59 million this year from 1980 and $77.9 million from 1979.

Collections from fuel taxes, license plates fees and other sources produced $682,908,879 for the Michigan Transportation Fund in the fiscal year ended September 30, down 7.5 percent from the $738,505,904 collected in Fiscal Year 1979-80. The yield in Fiscal 1978-79 was $760,831,070.

Explaining the decline, State Transportation Director John P. Woodford said:

"Cars are getting smaller and they're getting better mileage, and the great bulk of transportation revenues comes from fuel taxes based on the amount consumed and license plate fees based on the weight of the vehicle.

"Cars are getting smaller and they're getting better mileage, and the great bulk of transportation revenues comes from fuel taxes based on the amount consumed and license plate fees based on the weight of the vehicle.

"Coupled with the decline is the steady increase in the cost of maintaining our systems. Everybody—the state, the counties, the municipalities—is being squeezed from both ends," he concluded.

Gasoline taxes produced $417.55 million in the year ended September 30, a drop of $30.4 million, or 6.8 percent, from a year earlier. Diesel fuel taxes yielded $13.14 million.

Area realtors to continue battle against 'due-on-sale' clauses

Realtors attending a forum last week on the controversial "due-on-sale" clause written into home mortgages indicated they would continue to battle against its enforcement. Sponsoring the event was the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR), the state's largest.

The clause, now standard in most mortgage contracts, seeks to allow the lender to call for full payment of the remaining balance if the property changes hands.

Laws or court actions in a reported 20 states now prohibit or restrict enforcement generally on the grounds that such requirement constitutes undue restraint of an owner's right to sell or transfer property. Some have held that the clause may only be enforced if the lender can prove the sale resulted in a greater degree of security risk for the loaned funds.

In Michigan, a 1977 State Court of Appeals ruling forbids enforcement solely for the purpose of increasing the interest rate. However, more than 18 lawsuits challenging this ruling are reportedly pending.

Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, a principal speaker at the forum, announced last month that he was filing a friend of the court brief in support of a California case challenging the clause now before the U.S. Supreme Court. Oral arguments are expected to be heard in November with a decision issued by mid-1983, Kelley said.

"There is no issue more important facing prospective home buyers and sellers today," said Lloyd Mason, president of WWOCBR. "An existing mortgage with interest rates below the high level of today is a prime requisite for most transactions now. If lenders are permitted to enforce this ill-advised clause and obtain additional profits on the loan, the existing home market would come to a virtual standstill."

He reported that most of the 60 percent of home sales nationwide last year making use of creative financing involved an existing mortgage. WWOCBR members noted nearly 75 percent of their 1981 sales were made with mortgage assumptions or land contracts with the figure topping 80 percent in both December and last month. Both types of transactions have caused lenders to seek enforcement of the due-on-sale clause.

"These transactions are the only positive factor in the local housing market over the past two years," Mason said. "Employment of creative financing has enabled moves by thousands of buyers and sellers who otherwise would have been stymied. It generally drops the effective interest rate substantially so the buyer of an average home may save up to $200 each month. This makes the home affordable."

"As it is, our market has dropped some 40 percent below 1979 levels with so signs of early improvement. Despite a fast developing need for more housing, thousands of listed properties remain in the market for extended periods, primarily due to unaffordable mortgage interest rates being asked of prospective buyers. If the due-on-sale clause does become enforceable, very few buyers will be in a position to meet resultant higher costs and the market will fade to a mere trickle."

MAYBE OUR NEW 10% DISCOUNT FOR NON-SMOKING HOMEOWNERS WILL ENCOURAGE PEOPLE NOT TO SMOKE and, We Think That's Great!

When Citizens Insurance Company of America decided to offer a 10% discount to non-smoking homeowners, our intention was to continue to make homeowners premiums more cost-efficient for all our policyholders—non-smoking households have fewer fire losses than smoking households, and we felt that fact ought to be reflected in our homeowners rates.

But, on the other side of the coin, maybe our new 10% discount will encourage some people not to smoke, and we think that's great, too.

Stop by your local Citizens Agent today, and ask about the 10% discount for non-smoking homeowners—for more than just the health of it.

Our Opinions

'State of Township' served its purpose

Despite outward indications, there was a purpose served in the recent "State of the Township" meeting in Canton Township. While it probably wasn't the dispersement of information that Township Supervisor James Poole had planned, a valuable service was performed at the meeting, nonetheless.

Poole had instigated the meeting for the purpose of informing local taxpayers about conditions in the township—he wanted, he said, to educate the people and to expose some misconceptions many taxpayers had regarding the spending of their money. It didn't quite work out that way.

County Commissioner R. William Joyner made the first attempt to clarify the funding of the Wayne County Road Commission—followed by Poole, and then the guest engineers from the commission itself.

The men repeated their explanations, they told the crowd collectively and individually that the Wayne County Road Commission is funded entirely by state gas and weight taxes. If anyone was listening, it wasn't evident.

And when the irate audience began demanding to know if each and every subdivision and or road in the township was the last on a priority list to be plowed—the speakers patiently repeated their explanation that priorities are only established by school and bus routes, after the major roads are completed.

The disbelieving audience was told repeatedly by the supervisor, by the county engineers and by the county commissioner—the citizens of Canton Township are not paying one cent in county taxes to the Wayne County Road Commission.

But the residents did get a chance to speak—and that may have been the real value of the meeting. Poole allowed them all to have their say, and they took advantage of the opportunity.

The county was accused of ignoring the taxpayers, of misuse of funds and of other assorted crimes having nothing to do with the issue of unplowed roads.

Poole's ethics, legitimacy and ability to hold office were questioned in undertones and mutters. He was booed, insulted and abused. Overall he handled it well.

He offered them information, which they rejected, they offered their opinions and vented their frustrations, which he accepted.

It might not have been an even trade—but overall everyone derived some benefit. The angry residents finally found someone to listen to their complaints and James Poole learned a valuable lesson.

Let's hope it won't stop him next time. He had a good idea and he's trying to communicate honestly and openly with the residents.

There aren't too many politicians with his nerve.

Attorney appointment: Another viewpoint

The city council in Westland is refusing to confirm the mayor's appointment for city attorney citing varying reasons.

I have found a few things that might shed a little light on what's happening. First, Ben DeHart got on the council by way of a recall set by Tom Taylor, as he said, to have people on the council that he could work with. (They also gave support to Mr. DeHart in getting elected.)

Next we have Justine Barnes, who has been a friend of losing candidate Brown and has gotten along quite well with Tom Taylor. The same one who wanted C. Charles Bokos as city attorney when he took office in 1976, and she saw no problem then, even though we were tied up with litigation more then than now. Remember, Tom Taylor threw his support to Mr. Brown also.

Next we have Robert Wagner, who voted "no" in 1976 and is voting "no" now, but for other reasons. Only with subtle help did Wagner get elected. My...

My! Next we have two others, Charles Griffin and Kenneth Mehl (you remember the signs in the last elections—they ran with the losing mayoral candidate). In 1976 Griffin voted for C. Charles Bokos for city attorney and said that a mayor should have the people he wants and needs to do his elected job. Kenneth Mehl served on the planning commission with the blessings of Tom Taylor and both had his (Taylor's) support in the last election.

I have saved Thomas Artley for last, who was appointed (to the council to fill the spot held by Glen Shaw who left to become city assessor) by guess who... Tom Taylor—and like all the others he too supported the losing mayoral candidate in the last election.

But Mr. Artley is quite a novel person to say the least, for at the Bailey Center on Jan. 3, 1982, Mr. Artley said that the reason he would not go along with the mayor was that as long as we were tied up in litigation of about one million dollars he could not see changing horses in the middle of the stream. He also said that he had written the mayor urging him to sit down and talk with them.

But when it was pointed out that we were in more litigation in 1976 when C. Charles Bokos was appointed, Mr. Artley said that he was not on the council then... very true. But when asked was it not the council president's duty to contact the mayor after his election and not it's members?, there was little response from Mr. Artley; for, you see, it was decided before the election that Mr. Artley would be the next president of the council.

And there's C. Charles Bokos, who could end it all by saying, "Look, the mayor-elect would rather have someone else as city attorney, so I will step aside and honor his wishes—as was done when I was appointed city attorney." But he won't, which leads me to one of two conclusions: (1) These bastions of council are good intentioned people, and, like a sinner, they have found religion or (2) as I suspect, they are simpering, whimpering cry babies who, after backing the loser in the last election and thus the office of the mayor, are fighting to usurp the mayor's authority and keep as many of Tom Taylor's boys as possible on the payroll.

They could prove me wrong and stop the double talk and rhetoric and abide by the practice of giving the mayor the confirmation of his appointments without the pettiness.

The Other Side of the Meridian

A rerun

By TOM MOORADIAN
Managing Editor

The "game" between police officer and felon is a deadly serious one.

And the statement is made to assure the reader this writer doesn't take crime and criminals lightly. They—the law breakers—are a detestable lot.

However, I can't help but smile about an accident that took place some two decades ago in what was then the Township of Dearborn or later known as Dearborn Heights. That was, of course, John Canfield territory.

It was also extremely difficult to cover the crime scene in that township because police officers usually "misplaced files", and it took ever so long—especially on 'deadline' days to find them.

And when a reporter has a deadline he meets it, or he soon finds himself out on the street or worst even, writing those "never-ever exciting 'obits'".

During those many, many nights while going over police reports (in those days the reporter went to the beat and didn't wait for a phone call from the chief if anything big broke) the dialogue would go something like this:

Police officer: If you guys didn't write about the RA's (armed robberies), those guys would not be hitting us so hard. They read that someone knocked off a place here and got a couple of grand and they want some of the action.

Reporter: You're out of your head. They'll knock over a store because it's easy picking.

Police officer: You're full of— Reporter: Maybe...

It's the old "egg and chicken argument"—who knows what came first? But, one thing for sure, no police officer is going to convince me that a criminal, especially the run-of-the mill, two-bit illiterate is going to spend time reading newspapers to find out which store or market to hit next.

He cases the place or walks in and coldly announces his intentions. If the felon spent time reading as a youngster he probably wouldn't have wound up behind a gun or behind bars.

Admittedly, all this is pure speculation and I haven't been inside a police department for years so I don't know what the attitude is nowadays, but criminals, in general, haven't changed.

They still keep on shooting, robbing and killing.

And I doubt that they take the time to read about it.

Do you?

Does everyone want clean air?

By RICHARD L. LESHNER
President Chamber of Commerce of the United States

Does everyone want clean air? Numerous pollsters have told us yes, but I'm not so sure. There exists a constituency of harping voices that has done everything possible to delay the enactment of a streamlined Clean Air Act that can work better than the one that expired last September 30th.

Am I talking about businessmen, Secretary James Watt's Interior Department, or job-conscious labor unions? No. Ironically, the individuals who seek to preserve the unworkable status quo in clean air regulation call themselves environmentalists.

A recent Opinion Research Survey conducted for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce pinpointed more specifically than previous polls the objective of Americans on the subject of clean air. First, we want clean air. Second, we are willing to pay for it. Third, we don't want to spend more than is necessary. We do not want to waste our money or needlessly sacrifice economic growth with red tape bureaucracy and overlapping, contradictory requirements. We support changes in the current Clean Air Act to make it work better.

Since the enactment of the original act in 1970, the first two objectives unearthed in our survey have been answered. First, as a result of the Clean Air Act, technological improvements and an encouraging environmental consciousness on the part of the business community, great progress has been made toward cleaning up the air.

Second, we surely have paid dearly for this progress. Best estimates put the cost to businesses and consumers thus far at $200 billion.

However, our third objective—to pay as much as we have to but not more than we have to, has not been met. Since the Clean Air Act expired on September 30, an impressive coalition of businesses, labor unions, state and local governments and a bipartisan group of Congressmen have made a sincere effort to reenact the Clean Air Act, but to pass a law that cuts costs, streamlines regulations and enables us to better pursue our twin goals of a healthy environment and a healthy economy.

This coalition, echoing the feelings of a vast majority of Americans, believes that the current law can and must be adjusted to take account of the progress that has been made, without retreating from the strictest health standards.

That's not good enough for many self-styled environmentalists. They insist that any changes whatsoever in the current law amount to an attempt to gut it. They have turned this technical issue into a political football, reducing it to a few jingoistic slogans for their lucrative fundraising letters. They are shown example after example of contradictory and confusing regulations, some of which actually cause delays in cleaning up the air. Yet they do not budge from their advocacy of the status quo.

Last December, Rep. Thomas Luken, an Ohio Democrat introduced a Clean Air bill (H.R. 5252) that would meet the major objectives of a vast majority of Americans. It has been cosponsored by a bipartisan group of 36 House members, and is supported by leading business, labor and government representatives. It proposes extensions from 1982 to 1987 on a case-by-case basis, of deadlines for states and industries which are sincerely attempting to meet air quality and health standards.

It would ease existing limits on auto emissions but without lessening the overall air quality standards for a particular area. It would once again permit job-creating businesses to expand and modernize in areas that have yet to attain clean air goals, so long as the new facilities are equipped with the best available technology and the community has met, or will soon meet its clean air goals.

The supporters of this legislation, the advocates of a tough, efficient environmental policy for the 1980s, are the true friends of the American environment—an environment in which the people want to include clean, healthy air, common sense and economic opportunity.

On Westland school taxes

EDITOR — I have lived in Westland for 20 years. It's bad enough that my taxes have constantly been increased, but when city council approved and rescheduled the payment of school taxes, my house payment went up from $167 to $225 a month.

Graham Mortgage claimed at $506 shortage because of the rescheduled tax payment.

I'm hoping that council immediately rescinds the scheduled payment of school taxes and notifies the mortgage companies of same so that they can hopefully correct and lower the escrow, even though Griffin doesn't seem to care or want to act on this.

Your allowance of the twice a year school tax may be very convenient for the schools, but it's a shock and disservice to the homeowner taxpayer.

I might further add that any proposed city tax is doomed, no matter how worthwhile.

One reason for this is the high (est) W-W school tax that the school system has gotten very fat on.... It seems as though Dr. Dyer is building an empire at the taxpayer's expense and with council's help.

I'm glad that the city of Wayne Council had more apparent foresight in not creating any more tax burdens for its citizen homeowners.

I also question Councilmen Charles Griffin's and Nancy Neal's close ties to the school system and their apparent approval of the tax collection and their failure to correct this situation to date.

I'm hoping that Mayor Charles Pickering will use his influence and understand the situation and support the homeowners. I'm sure that the mayor must realize that the bigger the burden school taxes are, the bigger the hardship for the city and homeowners, present and future.

I do not support or condone any thought of W-W Community College, especially when we are taxed for W.C.C. and surrounded by numerous others. Down with W-W taxes.

Tribute to City of Romulus

EDITOR — A word to inform the citizens of Romulus that Mayor William Oakley, City Council, Department of DPW and others in his administration are very cooperative.

I live on Harrison Road between North Line and Eureka Road and the Spring thaw makes the road full of big chuck holes and impossible to travel from one end to the other.

A phone call to the Mayor's office and a truck or grader was out.

On Saturday, Jan. 23 and after Friday, Jan. 22, freezing rain made the road unsafe to travel, the city responded very quickly. That's what city government is all about.

A truck with salt came out to make the road safe for us.

So my dear citizens, your mayor and city employees are concerned about you.

Just a phone call will help you. Remember cooperation is contagious and there are no side effects. Good luck mayor and all involved.

IRS says story helped

EDITOR — In late 1981 you carried one of our press releases about taxpayers who had not received their 1980 federal income tax refunds.

The refunds were sent out by the Internal Revenue Service but were returned as undeliverable by the Postal Service.

Even after a follow-up notice was sent out, there were still some 1,300 Michigan taxpayers who did not get their refunds.

As a result of such newspaper articles, we received 452 inquiries about the refunds. In most of these instances, it proved to be the correct taxpayer who saw his or her name in the paper, or heard about it from a friend or relative. In one instance, we were able to get in touch with a young lady in Florida who found out about her refund from her mother in Detroit.

Those who found their refund, I am sure, appreciate the fact that you carried the story. We at the Internal Revenue Service do as well.

I wanted you to know the results of this project, to say thanks, and commend you for a really fine community service.

V-B 'show' was repulsive

EDITOR — If residents of Van Buren want to see a good show, they should attend the Township Board meetings and watch some of our leading citizens perform.

Mrs. George Hefner's act in this week's meeting was repulsive.

While citizens have the right to question board members about decisions, members of the board have the right to have these questions asked in a courteous manner.

While Mrs. Hefner might not support the Board, they were elected by a majority vote.

Someone should write her public speeches.

Clothing bank great success

EDITOR — Being involved with the Canton Clothing Bank and being aware of the many families in need within our Plymouth-Canton Community, I want to shout as loud as I can "thank you thank you" to all of you for making the holidays a little brighter for many of our families.

The new clothing items such as underwear, socks, mittens and hats you collected and donated have been given to many families for Christmas and the balance will be distributed during the year.

The funds that were donated from the Board of Education office personnel, W. W. Perrett Lodge #524 F. & A.M. of Plymouth will be used to purchase new shoes for the families during the year. We may have to use some of it to purchase some clothing items if we cannot fill that need on our shelves. Brownie Troop #241 of the Gallimore School attendance area, Leader Sue Kowalski, donated a turkey and four bags of groceries to a family for Thanksgiving and new underwear and socks for Christmas gifts.

The schools are to be commended for doing their part as the students gave up the pleasure of exchanging gifts with each other to purchase a new item of clothing for a child in need, and I wish to thank everyone who participated.

'We don't need a W-W college'

EDITOR — In response to the Guest Editorial by Phyllis Runion in the Feb 3 & 4 Issue, may I comment? I was amazed at the underhanded operations of the Wayne-Westland School Board. No wonder we pay the highest school taxes in this area.

I wonder if Dr. Tim Dyer knows what's happening in this state?

I wonder if the school board knows of the unemployment in this state? How bad the economy is in this area?

Everyone else is giving up fringe benefits, pay cuts — COLA — but not our high flying school board. They open up school teacher contracts and give them and themselves a fat raise. Boy — that sure is thinking of the taxpayers. I think we taxpayers had better wake up as Mrs. Runion stated in her article. Enough is enough.

We need another college in this area like a hole in the head.

I say this issue has to be dropped and give the taxpayers a cut in taxes. Where are the petitions to recall the 7 kings? Show me where to sign!

Tributes to Chief Remus

*A leader has fallen, he's finished the course.
A void's been created. There's time for remorse.
A love one's been taken, and hearts filled with grief
Tho there will be others, he'll still be "the chief."*

*While giving him credit for things he has done
I can't overlook all the friends he has won.
While missed by his children and dear loving wife,
He left an impression thruout all our life.*

*A city will miss him as chief of police.
He brought law and order and helped create peace.
We'll miss Jerry Remus in years yet to come,
A leader in Belleville, a father to some.*

*It won't be the same knowing he is not there,
We can't understand why this burden we bear.
We'll live with a memory, move on till the end,
Just ever so grateful, we knew him as "friend."*

Reflections

A cable TV star is born

Yesterday I taped a TV show. For several weeks before the big day I had suffered tortures of the psyche.

"Why did I ever say yes," I groaned to my husband. "Look at me. I'm too fat. TV cameras make you look even fatter than you are...."

And I would turn sideways and try to catch a glimmer of my image in my shiny toaster. My toaster didn't used to be shiny until my husband retired. It helps a lot to have a shiny toaster to catch one's image in when one is about to become a TV star.

"See, I AM fat," I moaned.

"Stop eating," my husband said without looking up from his newspaper.

This didn't help, of course, so I put the cover over the shiny toaster and left the kitchen.

Upstairs I scrutinized myself in the bathroom mirror.

"Look at my wrinkles," I moaned to my daughter. "TV shows up every single wrinkle. Oh, why did I say yes?"

"Call them up and tell them you've changed your mind," my kid said in her most matter-of-fact tone.

"Are you kidding?" I shrieked. "This might be the beginning of a new career."

"Are YOU kidding, mom," she said. "How many old and fat people do you see on TV?"

"Well, then we are discriminated against," I told her, lifting my cheeks up taut against my eyebrows. "Maybe I should fight that discrimination...."

"Oh mom," she said, a little bit of sympathy creeping into her voice. "I don't think you are old and fat. I think you are kind of cute...."

"That's right," her father said, who had come upstairs and was listening unashamedly to our conversation. "just a little round in the butt."

"Oooh," I moaned. "Never, ever will I say yes again. Even to fight discrimination."

The day came. I had used the wrinkle vanisher cream I had found in the drug store. I had put on a dark blue dress to minimize the fat, and using self-hypnosis I had psyched myself out, and I walked into that studio acting young and slender and glamorous.

Nobody seemed to notice. Nobody really seemed to care. But the moment the cameras turned on me, and I saw the little red light flashing, and I saw the director's fingers raised in the air, something happened. I was mesmerized. I was turned on. I was hooked.

"I'm going to have a TV show," I told my husband and the rest of my family, that is, all of them that would listen.

"Oh, sure," they answered. "I thought you were too old and too fat," my husband said.

"We need some old, fat ones on TV," I told him with firmness.

"Ha!" he said.

I am going to ignore my family. I am going to ignore that I am getting older and fatter. I am going to seek television fame after all. Miss Piggy made it, didn't she? But then, she is young.

MONA GRIGG

how to spot someone who took an assertiveness training course.

So to do something on a par with what Vicki Bamer and Nancy Noren did just boggles my mind. How many people, I wonder, actually even read product guarantees or store policies? And if they do, does it mean anything more than a pleasant reassurance? What would happen to a company if everyone took the time to make them live up to their promises?

Vicki Bamer says that pricing at the stores they "visited" got a lot better. But something else changed, too. The stores changed the policy so that now, if you find a sale item marked the regular price, you are limited to only one freebie.

That's progress, I guess, if not price and pride.

(Copyright 1982, Mona Grigg)

Mona Grigg

What happened to Price and Pride?

As soon as we erect a memorial that's bigger than a desk top to my greatest president, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, I propose that we begin construction of an equally suitable one of those two great but largely unappreciated housewife heroines, Vicki Bamer and Nancy Noren.

Pennsylvanians Bamer and Noren earned the esteem (and envy) of housewives-shoppers everywhere by "taking" their local supermarkets for over $3,000, thereby effectively reversing a time-honored and traditional trend.

It all started when Vicki decided to put to the test her local A&P's advertising policy. It stated: "If any item on sale is priced higher than the advertised retail price, you will receive that item free! It's that simple!"

In a matter of minutes, after checking shelf prices against advertised sale prices, she had $21 worth of free groceries. That's when Nancy entered the picture. She suggested they check out the policies at the surrounding area A&P's. Sure enough, when they quit a few hours later, they had over $100 worth of groceries stashed in their trunks.

In the beginning, they took only one or two of each mislabeled item—and they might have gone on that way, too—if it hadn't been for the hostility—and if they had seen a change in the pricing methods. But, as one might expect, the stores didn't take kindly to two little women smearing egg on their (the stores) faces, especially when the price of those eggs came out of their pockets—er, profits.

So, when Vicki and Nancy saw little or no change for their efforts, and when the management in a good number of those stores took to harassing and insulting them, those two little women decided that if they were going to subject themselves to that much rudeness, they might as well make it worthwhile.

Twenty-two A&P stores and $3,000 worth of goods later, they agreed that they had proved their point. (At one store, they found 44 one-pound cans of coffee which had been advertised at $1.99 but were marked $2.09, and got all 44 cans free.)

Good for them, I say, and more power to them. Even now, even if I had the chance, I'll bet I wouldn't have the nerve. I even hate to ask for rain checks.

Not long ago I thought a cashier had charged me $7.80 for 78 cents worth of tomatoes, but the guy before me had just spent five minutes making her life miserable and I could see she was almost in tears, so I waited until she was finished to look at my register tape. Only the marvelous electronic, computerized machine had garbled the tape so badly I couldn't make it out. I was actually heading for the door before good sense overtook me and forced me to go to the head cashier. She had to re-ring four bags of groceries on a busy Saturday afternoon, and she signed a lot while she did it, but the outcome was that I had, indeed, been overcharged by $7.02.

I still can't believe I actually did it — even for $7.02. I've taken two courses in assertiveness training now, and all I've really learned is

As sure as the sun has risen on a new day, one of our friends has gone on his way.

Sure I could agree and say it was a sad and mournful day, but I ask myself would he want it this way?

He would help you out and keep you going straight when things went wrong. It didn't make a difference if you were a king or a pawn.

Take care Jerry til we meet again.*

LEISURE LIFE

Dr. D.S. Ping, the only American to have attained the rank of Shihan, (highest in the martial arts) will teach a six-week course in Jishukan Ryu Jujitsu beginning Feb. 24. The program is sponsored by the Van Buren Parks and Recreation Department and requires pre-registration.

Van Buren teacher holds world ranking

Dr. D. S. Ping, who has earned the highest rank attainable in the world of martial arts (Shihan), will teach a six-week course in the art of Jishukan Ryu Jujitsu beginning Feb. 24 from 4:30 to 6 p.m. at Van Buren Township Hall.

An American director for Jishukan Ryu Jujitsu, Ping Shihan also teaches night stick training for police officers and conducts classes in self-defense for women. He is the only American to have achieved the coveted Shihan rank and owns the American headquarters for Jishukan, Ping's Dojo, in Ypsilanti.

Jishukan Ryu Jujitsu combines the elements of various art forms, including: Jujitsu, art of throwing; Kempo, use of hands and feet to defend body; Aiki Junitsu, locking of the joints to cause separation; Kendo, sword fighting; Jeute, defense with a blunt instrument, and Jijitsu, stick fighting.

Pre-registration for the course is required by Feb. 23 at the township hall, located at 46425 Tyler Road. Cost of the six-week program, to be held on Wednesdays, is $25. Further information may be obtained from the Van Buren Parks and Recreation Department at 699-2001.

Preposterous plot overshadows suspense

VENOM, from Paramount Pictures. Directed by Piers Haggard, written by Robert Carrington. Starring Sterling Hayden, Klaus Kinski, Nicol Williamson. Rated 'R.' ***

By J.T. YURKO
Special to Playtime

Instead of calling this film "Venom," the filmmakers could easily have called it "Fangs," and the connection with "Jaws" would have been clearer.

The "Venom" in this film, however, exists not only in the mouth of a vicious snake but in the criminal intent of a group of international criminals.

The terror of man mixes with the terror of nature, and though it sounds like a double dose of suspense, the two forces actually cancel each other out.

Part of the problem is improbability. A young boy in England has a room full of pets, but he has ordered one more—a harmless African garden snake.

But when he goes to the shop to get it, his order gets mixed up with the London Zoo's order for a deadly black mamba, perhaps the most poisonous snake in the world. One nibble from this nasty fellow and you're dead in 10 minutes.

That plot is greeted with the parallel plot of kidnappers trying to sneak the boy out of London and hold him for ransom. Enter Klaus Kinski as the human form of venom. With his sharp features and slender frame, combined with his shrill accent, he is as reptilian as his slithering counterpart.

The hero of the epic is Nicol Williamson as the police captain in charge of dealing with the terrorists holding the boy and his grandfather hostage in their house. Oh yes, the other unwilling hostage is the snake, now loose in the house.

As thrillers go, "Venom" is a competent and occasionally suspenseful yarn, but it requires a rather large suspension of belief from the audience.

The likelihood of two such unlikely events as those mentioned above happening at all is rather slim; that they should happen on the same morning, literally to the same hour, is a bit preposterous.

Williamson is a model movie actor—he looks good in any role. Kinski moves from Werner Herzog films into "mainstream" cinema, and could easily be a villainous character actor for years to come, but "Venom" itself will probably take a none-too-serpentine route to cable TV.

Roller skating can provide more than fun in Westland.

Trip to local roller rink could net valuable prize

A trip to Skateland West in Westland could be worth a new car next month.

Starting March 1 the Skateland roller skating rink will participate in a $1,000,000 sweepstakes that offers seven Dodge Aries K cars, five trips for two to Hawaii, 10 color television sets and 250,000 other prizes in a national contest.

Skateland West visitors will receive a scratch-off game card, which provides a chance for an instant winner of cars, trips, roller skates, soft drinks or free rink admissions.

The sweepstakes is being conducted by the Roller Skating Rink Operators Association to further popularize roller skating, which has grown from 20 million skaters annually in 1978 to 45 million in 1980.

More than 1,000 roller rinks will participate in the contest, according to association president Walter Carter of Virginia.

Skateland West is located at 37550 Cherry Hill.

What's That Sound? By STEVE O'LEARY

'Nick the Knife' is year's sharpest album release

As rockdom's foremost popmeister, Nick Lowe has quite a reputation to live up to. After all, Lowe almost single-handedly brought England's Stiff Record Company to worldwide prominence. Besides his own records, he's produced LP's by Graham Parker & The Rumour, The Damned, and Carlene Carter (the daughter of June Carter and Johnny Cash, and now Nick's wife). Not to mention Elvis Costello, who's worked with Lowe as his producer from the beginning and probably always will.

Then there was Rockpile, the group formed by Lowe and Dave Edmunds. After playing together for years and years on albums as (officially anyway) Edmunds' backing band due to contractual obligations, they finally did what they had wanted to do for quite some time—record as Rockpile. The album was great, but only a few months later the group split up, and it wasn't exactly under the most pleasant circumstances.

In the meantime, Lowe had put out two solo LP's, and surprisingly enough, he even had a hit single on U.S. radio! I say surprisingly not because of a lack of talent on Lowe's part, but rather on the usual lack of taste the radio has. I was shocked, but even WJR played "Cruel To Be Kind." I thought the world was coming to an end.

But moving right along... Lowe's third album has just been released, and it may just be the best thing he's ever done. And considering that his first LP, the aptly titled "Pure Pop For Now People" is one of the true rock masterpieces, that's saying something.

Last year's "Labour of Lust" was a fine album, too, though something seemed to be missing; his sense of humor. Indeed, it's his sense of humor that sets Nick Lowe in a class by himself (or is it his deodorant?).

For instance, I used to love playing "Marie Provost" off of "Pure Pop" for people. Everyone would love it, it being a beautifully melodic piece of work. Girls would be humming it. "It's great!" they'd say.

"I'd ask them to listen to the words. They heard the true story of a silent film star who killed herself with sleeping pills, forgetting to leave her dachshund something to get by on. 'She was a winner/That became the doggie's dinner' is how Nick phrased it. Chuckle, chuckle..."

There's nothing that morbid on "Nick The Knife," but his tongue-in-cheek style is definitely in attendance this time out. Just check out "Stick It Where The Sun Don't Shine" a nifty song (with a guitar riff stolen unabashedly from Creedence Clearwater Revival) which seems to be about the sticky situation we call divorce.

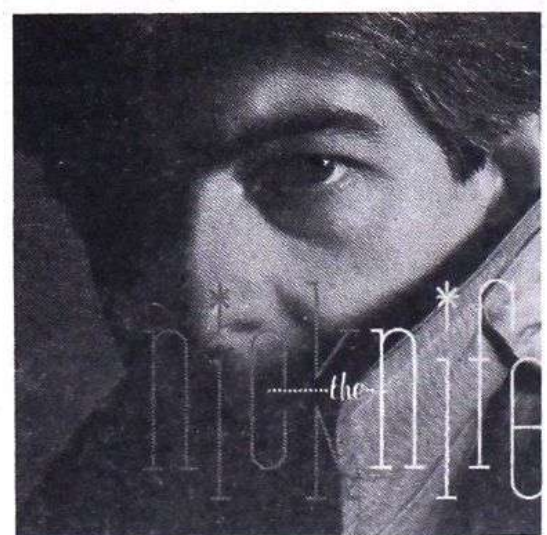

Well you can call up the lawyer
Do what you like
You keep the car
I'm on my bike
I can't be sorry when there ain't no choice
Either rejoin the rabble
Or listen to your babble
You can stick it, stick it...

What? You'd rather hear about love than the lack of it? Okay, how about "Queen Of Sheba" then? No, I doubt that even Rod McKuen could come up with this kind of poetry today:

There's a place
Where we can go,

And there's a thing,
That thing will grow...

Carlene Carter joins hubby Nick on quite a few songs (vocally, that is), but she also co-wrote two of them with him. "Couldn't Love You (Anymore Than I Do)" is a great mid-tempo tune with semi-

NICK LOWE
"Nick The Knife"
(Columbia)

Spectorish production, while "Too Many Tears" has a little raunchier sound to it. Lyrically, it's a good example of Lowe's excellence, as he takes an overworked cliché and twists it just right:

Too Many Tears
Have I cried for you
Now I'm all cried out
I couldn't "boo" another "hoo"

"Let Me Kiss You" is a practically perfect pop song, and would surely sound great on the radio. Hopefully it will. The same goes for "Raining Raining," as it's a beautiful song just made for the radio. Sure, it's VERY commercial, but it's also VERY good, proving once again that that lane called the Middle Of The Road is wider than most people think.

The album's closing cut, "Zulu Kiss," is a strange one. Real strange. We start off in the jungles of Brazil, where the natives deliver their intentions: "I Want to Zulu Kiss your Everything." Next, we're in space, where we're informed that "The Martians got a mojo/That'll blow your mind." And here's something else they left out of Star Wars:

Nobody's ever done it
On the surface of the moon
But they do what they want
So they do it there too

Gee, they never even mentioned that stuff on "My Favorite Martian." Imagine... "Uncle Martin, why didn't you tell me about that stuff?" "Because Tim, I'm really your father." "Hmm, I guess that explains why I'm so popular at the office!"

Anyway, what I've been trying to say is that "Nick The Knife" is by far the year's sharpest release, and, with a little luck (both his and ours), there'll be at least nine or ten singles culled from it, flooding the airwaves with style. C'mon radio, how "Lowe" will you go?

Tree has 'giving' theme

Having shed its tinsel and decorative ornaments, the Christmas tree at the shared offices of the Belleville Enterprise and Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce has taken on a new look and the title of "Giving Tree." Due to the volume of calls from the needy at Christmas-time, Diane Ferguson of the newspaper office (left) and Leona Van Buhler of the Chamber decided that help was surely needed all year long, particularly in these recessionary days. Currently festooned with red hearts, Valentines and twinkling lights in honor of the Feb. 14 holiday, the "Giving Tree" will henceforth be decorated in a motif appropriate to each month. Anyone in the community wishing to donate canned and non-perishable foods may take them to the office and place them in the "gift" boxes under the tree. These items will be turned over to an agency which will handle their distribution. Drop in and see this month's tree which could well be labeled "Have a heart tree."

Newcomers on the scene

Eric Jay Johnson

Six-year-old Orthea Marie Johnson of Romulus is being a big help to her mother these mid-winter days by giving her a hand with the new baby at their house—a brother for Orthea and a son for J.B. and Anita Johnson.

The new heir, who put in his appearance Jan. 27 at Riverside Osteopathic Hospital in Trenton, weighed in at 6 lbs. - 1 oz. and measured 19½ inches.

Titled "Eric Jay," he is the new grandson of two Romulus couples, Roosevelt and Mary Holliday and Mr. and Mrs. Brooker Brown.

Sarah Denise Kittle

From North Adams comes word of the birth of a baby girl to Kenneth and Mary Michele Kittle of 540 Knowles Road. Their first child, she arrived at 12:49 p.m. Jan. 29 at Hillsdale Community Health Center, weighed 6 lbs. - 11 ozs. and measured 20¼ inches.

Given the title "Sarah Denise," she is the first granddaughter born into a family of three grandsons belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dziedzic Sr. of Romulus.

Her paternal grandparents, who reside in Jerome, are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kittle. Great-grandparent honors go to Kenneth McLennan of North Adams and Mrs. Catherine Dziedzic of St. Clair.

The new mother is the former Mary Michele Dziedzic.

Jessica Marie Bies

The birth of their second daughter, Jessica Marie, is being announced by James and Marjorie Bies of 355 Putnam, Pinckney.

Making her debut Jan. 24 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, the infant weighed 8 lbs. - 1 oz.

The new baby sister of Nicole Lynn Bies, who's 2-year-old, she is the granddaughter of Noah and Frances Risner of Pinckney and Henry and Helen Bies of Belleville.

Jessica Lynn Manzanares

"Jessica Lynn" is the label chosen for the new daughter, their first child, born Feb. 7 to Donald and Stacey Manzanares of 16130 Haggerty Rd., Belleville.

The petite 5 lb. - 9 oz. bundle arrived at 10:53 a.m. at Brent General Hospital in Detroit where she weighed in at 5 lbs. - 9 oz.

Her proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Wally Hershburg of Union Lake.

Brian Alexander Guzowski

It was a second son Jan. 24 for Michael and Vicki Lynn Guzowski of Westland who named their new offspring Brian Alexander. The 8 lb. - 6 oz. newcomer premiered at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor and measured 20¼ inches on arrival.

He is the new brother of Michael Ray, who's 2-year-old, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guzowski of Graden City and Ray and Gloria Henry of Belleville.

The young man also has five great-grandmothers and two great-grandfathers. His mother is the former Vicki Lynn Henry.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This column is available to all those wishing to announce the birth of their children or grandchildren born in this area or elsewhere. We ask only that there be some connection with Belleville, Romulus, New Boston and the outlying townships. Former residents are invited to send news of their additions as well.)

Pork chops 'n chunky fruit

Need a little magic to perk up family meals? Start with the simple ingredients that are the basic fare for daily menus—like pork or poultry—add a little of this and a little of that—and you've got the formula that transforms the ordinary into extraordinary entrees.

Pork chops are a popular choice for supper entrees. Prepared quickly and easily with packaged seasoned coating mix, the results are even better—moist, tender chops seasoned to bring out all of the natural flavor of the meat. This recipe for Pork Chops 'n Chunky Fruit is a perfect example of how you can dress up this family favorite simply by adding a can of fruit and a few other staple ingredients. Served with a sweet-sour sauce made with the fruit syrup, this delectable dish turns supper into a special occasion.

Pork Chops and Chunky Fruit

1 can (17b oz.) chunky mixed fruit

6 pork chops, ¾ inch thick (about 2 lb.)
1 envelope Shake 'n Bake seasoned coating mix for pork
¼ cup cut firmly packed brown sugar
¼ cup catsup
2 tablespoons vinegar

Drain fruit, reserving syrup. Moisten chops in about ¼ cup of the syrup. Coat chops with seasoned coating mix as directed on package and arrange in single layer on rack in ungreased shallow baking pan. Bake at 425° for 40 minutes. Place fruit in pan with chops, brush with syrup and bake 5 to 10 minutes longer, or until chops are tender. Always cook pork thoroughly. Brush fruit again with syrup.

Meanwhile, combine and heat ½ cup of the syrup, the brown sugar, catsup and vinegar. Serve with the chops and fruit. Makes 6 servings.

Show contest set

Ordinary carpenter's nails will be worth $20,000 to someone next month at the Builders Home, Flower and Furniture Show.

Set for March 6 through 14 at Cobo Hall, the show will feature its 30th annual "House of Nails" contest, which awards $20,000 to the show visitor who comes closest to estimating the total number of nails contained in a clear plastic house.

The "House of Nails" will remain on display at the National Bank of Detroit's main office lobby until the show opening. Showgoers are entitled to two guesses per advance ticket purchased and one guess for every ticket purchased at the door.

Tickets are available from most florists and by mail from the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, 804 One Northland Plaza, Southfield, 48075.

potpourri

By Lee Smith Suburban Living Editor

A lame back (LB) doesn't do much to help one's always-happy-on-Monday attitude ... lift one's after-the-weekend morale ... or expedite one's planned physical activities. That's the lesson I learned last week when the old family-back-history decided it was time to include yours truly in its archives.

An LB doesn't help the house get its overdue vac as you'd planned. It doesn't encourage you to slip out to the mailbox to check for yippee-it's-Monday circulars, those anxiously-awaited bills or further hype on "first editions"—plates, thimbles, figurines, etc.

"It" also doesn't get you down the stairs very often—to check what old friend freezer has to offer for dinner; to gather distilled water for houseplants; to put away those quart and pint jars (alined on the stairs) before BG trips over them.

Your "problem" doesn't get you uptown to hunt for bathroom wallpaper. In fact, the mere thought of hefting those gigantic volumes makes the ol' vertebra hurt even worse. You wouldn't get to town in the first place since you couldn't even get into the car. (It pains to move forward let alone sideways.)

Those nagging lumbar regions make it a stay-at-home day and deprive you, too, of the excitement of grocery shopping. Since the day's specials include a five-pound sack of flour, diet Faygo in eight-counts, apple juice by the gallon and similar items of bulk, you can imagine the "pleasure" it would be to lug those things to the car, let alone lift 'em into the trunk.

Your LB doesn't get you to this month's Kiwanis travelogue (an hour early—an honor afforded all good Kiwanis wives) since it hurts to sit and there's no place to plug in your heating pad or warm your hot water bottle.

Ah, but just think of all the unusual and stimulating activities you CAN participate in merely by plunking yourself down (v-e-r-y carefully)—with aforementioned heat sources available—in the family room.

There you can:

- watch the dust settle around you thanking the sunny skies for providing the beams to spotlight the little particles.
- count the scratches on the glass top of the coffee table.
- guess how many red and green Chuckles are left from Christmas in the apothecary jar.

• count off the few minutes it takes for your cup of coffee to grow cold as you become engrossed in Chapter 57 (the 789th page) of Shogun's cousin, "Noble House." And then the many, many tick-tocks it takes to unspring yourself from the cavity-in-the-couch to warm it up again.

• watch snowmobiles whiz by and feel every bump those young bods aren't even aware of.

• listen to the phone as it quits ringing before you can even unfold from your "hot seat."

• observe the leaves on the weeping fig turn yellow at the tips. And know you'll forget to move it to better light as soon as you turn to page 790 in the 1206 page volume which is putting your lap to sleep.

• practice your Quasimoto impersonation each time you hunch your way to food and/or drink in order to surprise BG with after-dinner entertainment.

• make notes to add to the list, "Things to fill BG's spare time," and estimate how much laughter you'll hear when he sees fake beams, track lighting, plaster patching and fireplace cleaning under "family room."

And last but not least—

• jot down silly ideas for a lead into this week's "potpourri."

THERE ARE SO MANY terms and phrases we use in our every day conversations—and we read them, too, and more often than not, never give their origins a bit of thought.

Baker's dozen, for instance. Where did the term have its beginnings? What does it mean?

There are many theories about the origin of this phrase. The most commonly accepted dates back to 15th century England. It seems that bakers had long had a reputation—whether deserved or not—for short-weighting their bread. As a result, very strict laws were passed regulating the weight of the various breads, muffins and cakes.

But, as every cook knows, it's not possible—especially when cooking with the primitive ovens then available—to have the loaves absolutely uniform in weight. So the practice developed of giving 13 loaves on every order for 12, thereby guaranteeing there would be no penalty for shortages.

Another theory is that the phrase developed by analogy from "printer's dozen" for in the early days of publishing it was the custom of printers to supply the retailer with 13 copies of a book on each order of 12. Since the retailer was billed at list price, the return on the 13th book represented his profit on the transaction.

As a sidelight on this medieval selling technique, by the way, we may note that today one of the most prevalent practices of the book trade is for the publisher to offer retailers "one for 10", or one free book with every 10 ordered, thereby increasing the retailer's margin of profit and, of course, the number of books sold by the publisher.

And there's still ANOTHER theory. It seems that the bakers of the medieval period had such a bad name that the words baker and devil were sometimes used interchangeably. Thus the term "baker's dozen" may have evolved from "devil's dozen" which was a common folk phrase meaning 13. And 13 was the number of witches usually present at meetings summoned by "Old Nick."

MORE ON THOSE AMERICAN AVERAGES

- In two out of three homes in the United States, the wife pays the bills.
- On average, the higher a woman's social class, the later in life she marries and the more likely she is to remain single.
- The average med student applied to 7.8 schools in addition to the one she or he is attending. Of every 100 medical-school students, 46 had a perfect A average in their pre-med college work.
- Sooner or later, almost everybody has warts. Right now, seven to 10 percent of the population has them. And, once again folks, "viruses" cause them.
- Do we Americans get sick much? Twice a year on average. That's counting injuries but not chronic conditions like diabetes or a bad heart. Actually, the average is 2.19 times, so don't feel bad if you were sick three times.

THE BOTTOM LINE: Nature gave men two ends—one to sit on and one to think with. Ever since then, men's success or failure has been dependent on the one he used most.

Dillingham-Oberle engagement is told

The engagement and spring wedding plans of their daughter, Carolyn Dillingham, and Daniel J. Oberle are being announced by Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dillingham of 44065 Harmony Ln., Belleville.

The bride-elect, who earned a bachelor of science degree at Central Michigan University, is employed at Circle Air Freight Corp. in Romulus.

Her fiancé, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Oberle of 10 Wayside Dr., Ferguson, Mo., resides at 1812 Crestline, Troy. A graduate of Westminster College in Fulton, Mo. where he earned a bachelor of arts degree, he is currently employed at Udyllite-Occidental Petroleum Corp. in Warren.

St. Anthony's Catholic Church has been reserved for the young couple's May 29 altar date.

Specialist on aging to speak at meeting

The Belleville Area Senior Citizens Club will welcome a special guest at its next meeting, Feb. 18 at Edgemont School.

Mrs. Dolores Zonca, specialist on aging for the Wayne-Westland Community Schools, will give a report on the White House Conference on Aging which was held in Washington, D.C. last fall. She will present the program at 6:30 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

As a delegate herself, Mrs. Zonca understands the depth and impact of this conference on all senior citizens. She will bring charts and graphic illustrations of the work the conference attempted. There were 2,266 delegates besides 12,000 official observers in attendance. Every person over 50 years of age in the community should be interested in the facts and figures to be presented.

Among those expected to attend are members of the September Days Senior Citizens Club and other senior groups in the area.

Goodnuff honored with award

Vincent Goodnuff, Past Master and Secretary of Myrtle Lodge No. 89, F. & A. M., of Belleville, attended the dinner and installation of officers of the Masonic Master's Association at Schoolcraft Masonic Temple Feb. 6. He was presented with the Meritorious Service Award, given once a year by the Association, to the outstanding Masonic member for service and active duty. Sidney Smith, District Deputy Instructor of Royal Arch Masons, made the presentation, which came as a complete surprise to Vincent, although several of his friends were in on the secret.

Other members who attended were Worshipful Master Chester Warren and his wife, Ilene; Senior Warden Gene Eadie and his wife; Past Masters David Tomey and wife, Karen; George Wilzga and wife and George Powell.

Mrs. Harvey Stabnau

of Biggs Street returned home last week from Redona Beach, Calif. where she had spent a week with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Menish and her second daughter, Suzanne Stabnau. The January birthdays of the three ladies were celebrated while she was there.

Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Hopson of Birmingham were week-end guests of the former's Mother, Mrs. B. P. Hopson of Belleville Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Baehr recently enjoyed a Chinese dinner in Ann Arbor with their daughter, Mrs. David Abbe and her two daughters, Debra and Dawn. The occasion was in celebration of Mrs. Baehr's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mericle were recent guests of a friend, Thomas Glover of Taylor. Also present were his brother and wife, the Frank Glovers of Taylor.

It's good for something

Although those over 35 may argue to the contrary, ice is good for something, as these youngsters in Romulus Rotary Park realize. And that something is a pick-up game of hockey. But with weather beginning to (finally) climb, the skaters will have to hustle or get out their bathing suits. Yesterday's thaw left many streets and roads flooded in the city and area.

State's auto traffic fatalities are lowest in 20 years

Michigan's slumping economy and a seven-year intensive highway safety program are major reasons the state achieved its lowest traffic death toll in 20 years, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"During 1981, 1,572 persons died on state roads, down more than 11 percent from 1980, despite the fact that miles traveled in the state rose 1 percent," stated Robert Cullen, Auto Club Safety and Traffic Engineering manager. Nationally, deaths dropped less than 4 percent.

"The last time the state recorded a lower fatality total was in 1961 when 1,567 persons were killed," he said.

Michigan's 2.6 death rate per 100 million vehicle miles is the lowest since Auto Club began keeping records in 1933. It also is significantly below the national average of 3.3 through November.

This is the third straight year that Michigan has had a rate below 3.0. In 1979 and 1980, death rates were 2.85 and 2.82.

"The recession and more than $80 million in federal funds pumped into the state for highway safety projects from 1974 through 1981 played major roles in reducing deaths," Cullen said.

"During recessionary periods people tend to live—and drive—more conservatively and we believe that conservative driving is synonymous with safer driving," he added.

Deaths during previous recession years of 1974 and 1975 fell 15 and 18 percent, compared with 1973. In 1957 and 1958, deaths dropped 11 and 21 percent when compared with 1956.

"We also are seeing the positive results of highway programs, which kept Michigan first in the nation in safety construction in the last seven years," Cullen added.

"More than $80 million in federal funds was used for projects ranging from installing new bridge abutment protection and median barriers, to paving shoulders, pavement grooving and upgrading traffic signals," he said.

Cullen said that the fixed-object crashes, which are the second-most common type of fatal accident in Michigan, were down more than 20 percent during the first six months of 1981 compared with 1980. Specific accident types, such as fatal mishaps involving bridge abutments, were down more than 56 percent from 1980 levels.

"In addition, more than $7 million in federal funds was spent on traffic safety education and selective law enforcement during the last seven years," he added.

Funds were spent on enforcement of speed and drinking driver laws as well as motorcycle education, safety belt use campaigns and other safety programs.

Cullen cautioned that education may not play as large a role in cutting future traffic deaths since federal funds for that purpose were reduced 40 percent of $4 million in 1982.

EDC loans available to businesses

Wayne County businesses in financial need are no longer taking full advantage of available federal and state funding assistance, Gary Bingamen, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Economic Development Corporation of Wayne County, reported today.

"People automatically assume that because of budget cuts in Washington, there are no more Small Business Administration (SBA) loans or Industrial Revenue Bonds available," Bingamen said. "This simply is not so."

"Market conditions certainly have made it more difficult, but the EDC of Wayne County is continuing to package and provide SBA loans and industrial revenue bonds for businesses across the county. Lately, however, the number of inquiries about these programs has dropped off sharply."

Bingamen said his agency is launching a public service announcement campaign this month to remind the business community that assistance is still available. The EDC of Wayne County is a public, non-profit corporation operated on income from both private and government grants and from service fees paid by clients.

It is authorized by law to provide financial and technical assistance to businesses to revitalize the economy and increase employment opportunities in the county.

Any business seeking to obtain information or assistance from the EDC of Wayne County should call 336-3306.

Services agency seeking volunteers

Family and Neighborhood Services of Out Wayne County has begun a Volunteer Program.

"We are looking for individuals, male and female at least 18 years and older with a High School diploma or a G.E.D. equivalent who are interested in volunteering their time to work with youth, young adults, individuals and families," said program coordinator Laurie Yandian.

"If you have skills we're interested in you."

Arts and Crafts, basic sewing, and reading stories with the mentally and physically impaired; assisting parents with meal planning, budgeting, household management, working with parent groups, working with adolescent parent groups, and coordinating play activities for young children; assisting senior citizens with chore services, transportation, and a medical program are all encompassed in the services offered.

Contact Pat Bellinger or Ms. Yandian at 782-0600 between the hours of 9:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., Mondays thru Fridays, if you wish to volunteer your help.

Services held for local restaurateur

Funeral services were conducted for Marjorie A. Pullen, a former Belleville-Van Buren resident, who passed away on Jan. 29, in Ft. Myers, Florida.

Mrs. Pullen was born on Sept. 15, 1901 and she and her husband, Edward, were well known restaurant owners in Belleville until retiring to Florida in 1971.

Surviving are her husband, Edward, and children Charles, Richard, Mildred, Joan and Edward. Also surviving are 22 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

MTC elects officers

Joseph L. Richards, supervisor of Oceola Township in Livingston County has been elected to a two-year term on the Board of Directors of the Michigan Townships Association (MTA).

Richards will represent District 18, an area made up by the counties of Livingston, Monroe, Washtenaw and Wayne. He was elected by that district's caucus held during MTA's recent educational convention. He joins Mary Lou Carey, clerk of Huron Township (Wayne) and Darryl Smith, supervisor of Berlin Township (Monroe) in representing that area.

MTA is divided into 19 geographical districts throughout the state. Its 44-member board leads a membership of 6,500 elected officials from 1,221 of Michigan's 1,245 townships.

Richards is a manager in the engineering department at the General Motors Proving Ground in Milford. He was elected supervisor of Oceola Township in 1976. A member of the Livingston County Board of Commissioners from 1968 to 1974, Richards has served on that county's Mental Health Board and Department of Public Works.

Doctor on Call

Sweaty problem

Editor's Note: Dr. Ernest Sorini is chief of Emergency Room Services at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. He served his internship and residency at the University of Utah Medical Center and has been in emergency medicine for five years. If you have health questions contact Dr. Sorini care of Associated Newspapers Inc., P.O. Box 578, Wayne, Michigan 48184.

By DR. ERNEST SORINI

Dear Dr. Sorini:

I am writing about a problem that I have had for several months, and I have not been able to get any satisfactory answers to the problem. The problem is that I sweat a lot, and sometimes even wake up in the night drenched. I don't seem to have any other symptoms; I take no medicines, and I have always been healthy. Can you help me?

Wet and Worried in Inkster

Dear Wet:

Sweating is an adaptation which the human organism has developed to cool the body. The evaporation of sweat from the skin uses heat, and results in a drop in the body surface temperature—a factory installed air-conditioner if you will.

Unfortunately, even though the human body does not often get recalled by his maker because of a faulty cooling system alone, a sweating mechanism that is on the fritz can be both annoying to the patient and perplexing to the physician who is trying to figure out how and where the wires got crossed.

The sudden onset of sweating in a seemingly healthy person with a normal body temperature and without exposure to uncomfortable extremes of heat can be a manifestation of many disorders.

In the post-menopausal female, for example, this may result from an inadequate amount of circulating estrogen, female hormones, resulting in so called, "hot flashes".

In addition, anxiety or fear may cause attacks of sweating, and in this case the sweating can be limited largely to the palms and soles.

Sweating which causes people to wake in the night drenched is somewhat more alarming, and may result from such diverse causes as undiagnosed tuberculosis, diseases of heart valves, and failure to report your actual income to the IRS.

I suggest that you call your doctor who can perform tests to detect thyroid disease, high blood pressure, hidden infections, or heart disease. These conditions are largely curable.

Failure to report income to the IRS is also curable, but the cure, i.e. paying the proper tax, actually results in most instances in a net increase in sweating.

Woodcarving is an display

A "Woodcarving Demonstration" will be held at the Nature Center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock from 1 to 4 p.m. on Sun., Feb. 28.

Members of the Downriver Chippers will be on hand to display and demonstrate various carving styles and techniques.

This program is "free." For information contact Oakwoods Metropark — Phone 697-9181 (Belleville).

A vehicle entry permit is required (Annual: regular — $7 or senior citizen — $2 or daily — $2).

Navy Airman Ford completes recruit training

Navy Airman Recruit Scott D. Ford, son of Ted and Beverly J. Ford of 29034 Lorman, Romulus, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week training cycle, trainees studied general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic occupational fields.

Included in their studies were seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

A 1980 graduate of Huron High School, he joined the Navy in July 1981.

Marine Cpl. Kenneth W. Prince, son of Carol Prince of 9045 Rawsonville Road, Belleville, has reported for duty with Marine Attack Squadron-311, Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, Calif.

A 1979 graduate of Ypsilanti Lincoln High School, Ypsilanti, Mich., he joined the Marine Corps in September 1979.

Marine Cpl. James C. Bevard, son of Joseph C. and Hazel G. Bevard of 47105 Bemis Road, Belleville, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with the 1st Battalion, 7th Marines, on Okinawa.

Pvt. Lowell C. Clark, son of Jeanne A. Clark of 126 Montague, Belleville, has completed a tracked-vehicle mechanic course at the U.S. Army Armor School, Fort Knox, Ky.

During the course, students were trained to repair engines, transmissions, and the fuel, electrical and air hydraulic systems of the Army's tracked-vehicles. They also learned to perform recovery operations for abandoned, damaged, disabled or mired vehicles.

Clark is a 1979 graduate of Belleville High School.

Marine Cpl. Roosevelt Rogers, son of Charles and Ola M. Rogers of 4254 Klink, Inkster, has been promoted to his present rank while serving at Marine Corps Base, Camp Butler, Okinawa.

Marine Cpl. Franklin L. Michaux, whose wife, Lorri, is the daughter of Margaret L. Reed of 34800 Beverly Road, Romulus, has reported for duty with 2nd Assault Amphibian Battalion, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

A 1978 graduate of Romulus High School, he joined the Marine Corps in September 1978.

John G. Conrad, 18, son of John and Denise Conrad, 816 B. Short St., Ft. Devens, Massachusetts, will enlist in the U.S. Air Force upon completion of school this June.

John's father is a Master Sergeant in the U.S. Army, and John currently resides at 16200 Haggerty, Belleville.

Under the Delayed Enlistment Program, John is guaranteed his departure date and job choice. His time in the Reserves will count toward his longevity pay. John is presently attending Belleville High School and will graduate in June.

For more information about enlistment in the United States Air Force, contact Technical Sergeant Roy Smith, 3645 Metro Place Mall; phone 326-8080.

Cadet Bowen promoted

Cadet Kurt J. Bowen, son of Mrs. Martha L. Brimble of Romulus, has been promoted to Cadet First Lieutenant in Junior ROTC at Howe Military School, Howe, which was recently announced by Howe's Superintendent, Brigadier General Eugene D. Scott, USAF (Retired).

Bowen holds this rank effective Feb. 2 by direction of Howe's Senior Army Instructor, LTC William L. Ellis.

From VA's Office

Widow is entitled to financial aid

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.

Q — My husband died while he was a patient in a Veterans Administration Medical Center. Will the VA help with the expenses of bringing him home for burial?

A — Yes. If a veteran dies while a patient in a VA Medical Center, transportation expenses to the place of burial may be allowed.

Q — How long after a veteran is discharged from active duty may he file a claim for compensation and pension?

A — There is no time limit for a veteran to file for a compensation and pension after discharge from military service.

Q — Is there an expiration date on VA home loan benefits?

A — No, loan entitlement is not subject to an expiration date.

Q — May on-the-job G.I. Bill training be pursued on a part-time basis?

A — No, you must use this training on a full-time basis.

Q — My father is a World War I veteran and he recently had a stroke that left him totally helpless and unable to care for himself. Will the VA put him in a nursing home and pay for it?

A — The VA cannot bear the expense of a private nursing home for veterans with non-service-connected disabilities unless the veteran is transferred directly from a VA hospital to the nursing home.

When such a transfer is made, the VA authorized care normally may not exceed six months. You should contact the nearest VA Medical Center or regional office for details.

Booklet lists vet benefits

The 1982 U.S. government's publication, "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents," is now off the press and available to the public.

The 73-page booklet, prepared by the Veterans Administration, sells for $4. To order, persons should ask for the book by name, and the number: IS-1. The address is Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

The booklet contains a complete listing of all benefits available to veterans and their families or survivors. There are complete lists of all regional offices, medical centers, national cemeteries and vet centers throughout the nation. Also listed are alcohol and drug dependence treatment centers.

Telephone numbers, including toll-free numbers for regional offices, are listed.

The booklet is issued annually and incorporates all of the changes enacted by Congress during the past year. It is one of the most popular of all booklets printed by the government.

Do-or-die for high school wrestlers

Area teams head for district tourney at Bedford

After clinching their respective league championships, Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn will join a score of area and state high school wrestling teams to compete for the Class A District Championships that will be staged on Saturday at Temperance Bedford.

Bedford, among the state's super powers when it comes to wrestling, will be the "team to beat" at the districts, and is expected to be in the running again for the state crown this year.

Those who survive district "wrestle-downs" will advance to the state regionals scheduled for the following week. In the meantime, Wayne Memorial took back the Great Lakes 8 Conference championships last week, a title that was on loan to Monroe for a year.

Coach Don Haney's Zebras garnered 197 points to dethrone the defending champ, Monroe, which piled up 148½ points. Fordson finished third (140), followed by Wyandotte (67), and Lincoln Park (48).

Wayne also had eight gold medalists including T.J. Harris (98), Paul Justice (105), Jeff Pangman (112), Dan Matauch (119), Joe Samples (138), Rick Glass (145), Jim Nesbitt (167), and Doug Shepherd (185).

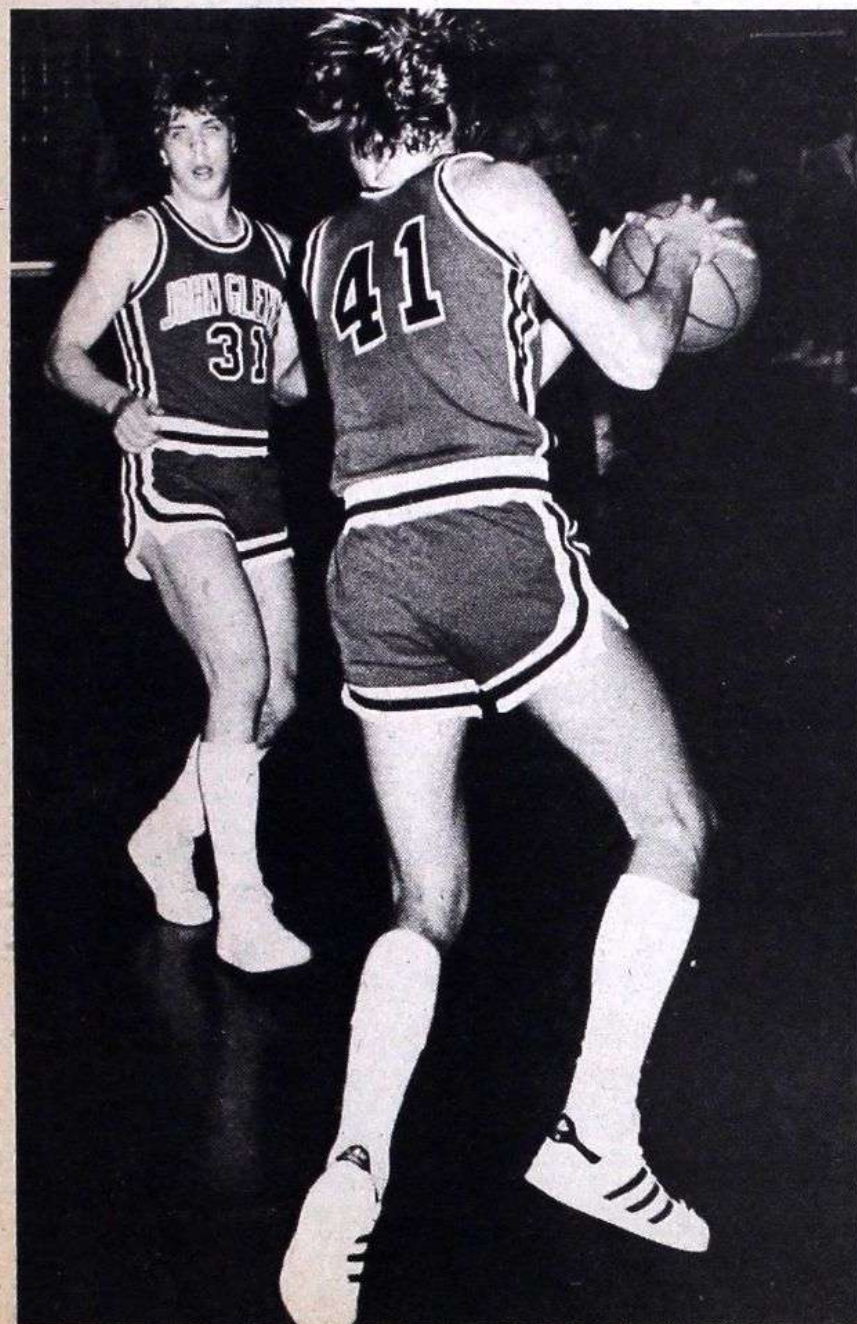

Justice and Matauch will take unblemished records into the districts. Justice had a perfect 37-0 mark, while Matauch has won all 34 of his matches this season.

Wayne wrapped up its dual meet season Tuesday night at home to Ferndale.

The district tournament competition will get underway in Bedford at 11 a.m. on Saturday. For those fans who annually attend the state championships, the Michigan High School Athletic Association would like to remind them that there will be no sales of tickets at the gate this year.

All tickets for the state will be processed through the local high schools.

Two-way traffic

John Glenn's Todd Stein (41) appears ready to race past teammate Todd Jennings as the Rockets put on a superb defensive show against North Farmington and Wayne. Coach Dan Henry's Rockets dropped a thriller to North 52-45 after avenging edging Wayne 57-56 in another cliffhanger.

Defense-minded Glenn gives North a scare

If Livonia Franklin wants the Northwest Suburban Conference basketball title it'll have to beat defending champ, Westland John Glenn for it.

Franklin, atop of the standing heading into the final week of conference competition, travels to Glenn on Friday in a game that could decide the next conference champ...or co-champs.

After dropping a nailbiting 52-45 decision to North Farmington last Friday, the Westlanders are out of the title picture because of their 3-4 record.

But that's not going to detour Glenn coach Dan Henry from his goal.

"Our goal is to beat one of the top teams in the league this year and simply put, Franklin is our last chance," Henry said. "And I feel the way our kids played last week, we have a good chance to accomplish our goal."

Although they lost to North, Glenn managed to eke out a 57-56 victory over natural rival, Wayne Memorial earlier in the week. That victory avenged a loss to the Zebras during the Christmas Tournament.

"Our work on defense has paid off," Henry said. "We put in a lot of extra time last week just ironing out the kinks."

North learned that the fourth place Rockets are a team to contend with. Up 13-9 at the end of the first period, Farmington had a difficult time convincing the Westlanders, who were down 31-22 at the half, to give up.

Glenn claims WW title

Westland John Glenn swimmers presented Coach Larry McConnell with the Division B Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Championship, a gift that the coach's late sixties and early seventies teams only dreamed of.

Glenn put together six first places and 364 points to beat out closest rival, Livonia Bentley, by more than 135 points to capture the "B" division crown. Wayne Memorial won the Division A title.

McConnell was coach of the Rockets during the 1969-70-71 seasons, then retired until the start of the 1981 season.

"I guess I came out of my so-called retirement because I feel we have excellent swimming talent at this school," McConnell said. "And I feel our program can be one of the best around."

McConnell's team is undefeated in the Northwest Suburban (2-0) and is sporting a 6-2 over-all record. Those two losses were to unbeaten Wayne Memorial (104-68) and to Farmington (105-67). The Westlanders have victories over Garden City West (104-60), Farmington Harrison (120-40), Livonia Churchill (104-67) and Belleville (45-37) — all are non-conference rivals.

The Rockets have defeated North Farmington 98-74 and Redford Union 103-68.

In the Western Wayne competition, Glenn captured both the 200-yard medley relay with Dave Ford, Jeff Thompson, Dave Wilcox and Jeff Dzuibek (1:51.6) and the 400-yard freestyle with the White brothers — Tim and Doug

Jeff Dozier and Jeff McGue in 3:30.7. McGue picked up a gold in the 50-yard

Monroe shows Wayne why it's tops in Great Lakes 8 hoop

BY ERIC GEARNES
Special Writer

It was a bad week for Coach Dan Vasilloff and his Wayne Memorial High Zebras as they fell twice, once to Westland John Glenn 57-56 and again Friday night to Monroe 93-68.

While Monroe blew away the Zebras with their hot shooting duo of Jeff Barnes and Dan Chappel accounting for 44 points (24 and 20, respectively), Vasilloff was still pleased with his team's effort.

"Monroe is an outstanding ballclub with good shooters, but our kids kept coming at them and the game was really up in the air until about the last four minutes," explained Vasilloff.

It was an uphill battle all night for the Zebras as they quickly fell behind the Tigers 11-2. But then the Wayne troops started fighting back and narrowed the gap to 23-15 at the end of the first quarter.

Wayne managed to pull to within two points midway through the second quarter, but a questionable technical foul call went against Wayne and Monroe pulled away to a 46-34 halftime advantage.

The Zebras managed to come close, during the third stanza, but the officials once again reared their ugly heads and Monroe pulled back to a 65-52 advantage at the end of three periods of play.

Wayne pulled to within six of the Trojans, and then, with Wayne applying a full court press, Monroe began to get loose for fast-break baskets, while Wayne didn't convert on its several steal opportunities and Monroe spurred to their final 93-68 advantage.

"I know that score looks bad on paper, but there were some very positive aspects of the game. We put four players in double figures for the first time this season, and we worked on some things that we wanted to do against some teams we will be playing in the future," said Vasilloff.

Shaun Boyer led the scoring for Wayne with 17 points, Jim Nibert added 13, and Tony Bass and Tyress Winberly threw in 11 points each for the Zebras. Mike Gallagher joined Barnes and Chappel in double figures with 17 points.

In a 57-56 loss to John Glenn, it was a completely different story for Wayne.

The game was close from beginning to end. Jack Walker led Glenn to slim first quarter 12-10 advantage as the big center poured in eight points for the Rockets.

Greg Gill managed the same feat for the Rockets in the second stanza, but his eight weren't enough to offset 10 points by Norm Devore and six by Tony Bass, as Wayne took a 30-28 advantage into the lockerroom at the half.

Balance was the keyword in the third quarter as each team got points from four different players with Glenn taking a 12-10 advantage in the quarter to tie the score at 40-40 after three quarters.

Once again the five foot six inch Gill led the Rockets in the final stanza scoring 10 of his game high 18 points including the last three points of the game to give Glenn their one point revenge victory over the Zebras.

Glenn's Dan Henry credited "hard work this week on defense" for his team's outstanding performances.

"We put in overtime on defense," Henry said, "and it paid off. It was an excellent game and I don't believe either team had more than a five-point lead at any time. But we got some key efforts from Walker (Jack) and Hawley and Stein on the boards and I feel that turned it around for us."

The victory also avenged an earlier loss by Glenn to Wayne. Wayne downed their natural rivals during the Christmas Tournament, 63-54. The two could possibly meet for a third time this year when they vie for the Class A district title at Plymouth Canton next month.

In the Jayvee matchup, Wayne got 20 points from Keith Strickland and 12 from Kevin Daily as the Zebras easily handled the Rockets 56-40. Bob Kujawski and Craig Thornton led the junior Rockets with 15 and 10 respectively.

Vasilloff felt that over-confidence was the downfall for the Zebras in the Glenn loss. "We went out there thinking that we were going to blow them right off the floor and they came out really wanting the game more than we did," said the first year mentor.

Little Bill's moves up to first place

For the first time in the 1981-82 Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey Season, Little Bill's Trophies has taken a narrow one point lead over Jake's Lounge in the Bonkowski Division.

Tastee Freez remains the leader in the Berrington Division by one point over Brock Builders.

Little Bill's moved up to the first place position by skating past Tastee Freez 7-5. Joe Soukup was the hero for Little Bill's by scoring three goals in the final 1:09 minutes to secure the victory, the final goal into an empty net.

Soukup also picked up one assist. Ed Harmon and Nelson Vanderburgh tallied once and received one assist while Jerry Bular and Gene Taurianen accounted for one goal apiece. Ron Swider and Jim McMaster finished the game with one assist.

Tastee Freez got on the scoreboard as Bob Eggers tallied twice and picked up one assist with Ken Beal, Ed Spontack and John Kunz rounding out the scoring. Dan Thomas finished with two assists as Dave Cherry, Dave Frankling and Dennis Broge picked up one assist.

Jake's Lounge dropped to second place as Benny's Pizzeria took charge of the game in the second period to log a 6-4 win.

Rod Dittmar tallied twice and picked up two assists to lead Benny's to victory as Claud Johnston and Dave Zajac

A first for Glenn tankers

Long continues to shine as pro cager

Ex-Romulus star leads Piston resurgence

BY ERIC GEARNS
Special Writer

While Detroit Piston rookies Kelly Tripucka and Isaiah Thomas have been getting most of the attention for the resurgent NBA team this season, there is one player who has consistently led the Pistons.

Romulus High School and University of Detroit graduate John

Long is once again the man the Pistons go to when they need the big points.

Long, now in his fourth year with Detroit, has proved to all those skeptical of former Coach Dick Vitale's drafting of the 6-5 shooter that he truly belongs in the NBA.

While the two rookies both made the All-Star team, it has been Long who has paced the team to their present lofty position in second place in the Central Division of the NBA's Eastern Conference.

The Pistons slumped badly earlier in the season when an injury forced Long to the sidelines for nearly eight games.

But the return of the brilliant shooter saw the Pistons move steadily from near the bottom of the division to its present position in contention for its first playoff slot in many years.

Long has led the team in scoring 19 times this season, and he has topped the 20 point mark on 18 occasions, cracked 30 points 10 times and scored a career high 41 points in a game against the Washington Bullets.

In the past 25 games, since the injury, Long has won 274 of 524 field goal attempts, 97 of 107 free throw attempts, pulled down 101 rebounds, dished out 71 assists, accounted for 30 steals and blocked 10 enemy shots. He has averaged 25.7 points per game over that time span and boosted his season average to 22.8, placing him in the top ten scorers in the league.

Long has become especially deadly on the free throw line and is presently on course to break the all-time single season free throw percentage set 22 years ago by former Piston great Gene Shue.

Long is presently the leader in career free throw percentage for the Pistons and is ranked sixth in the NBA this season.

Piston Coach Scotty Robertson

recognizes the value of Long to the Pistons.

"I realize that the two kids are getting most of the attention, but I would hate to think of where this team would be without John Long," said the Piston Coach.

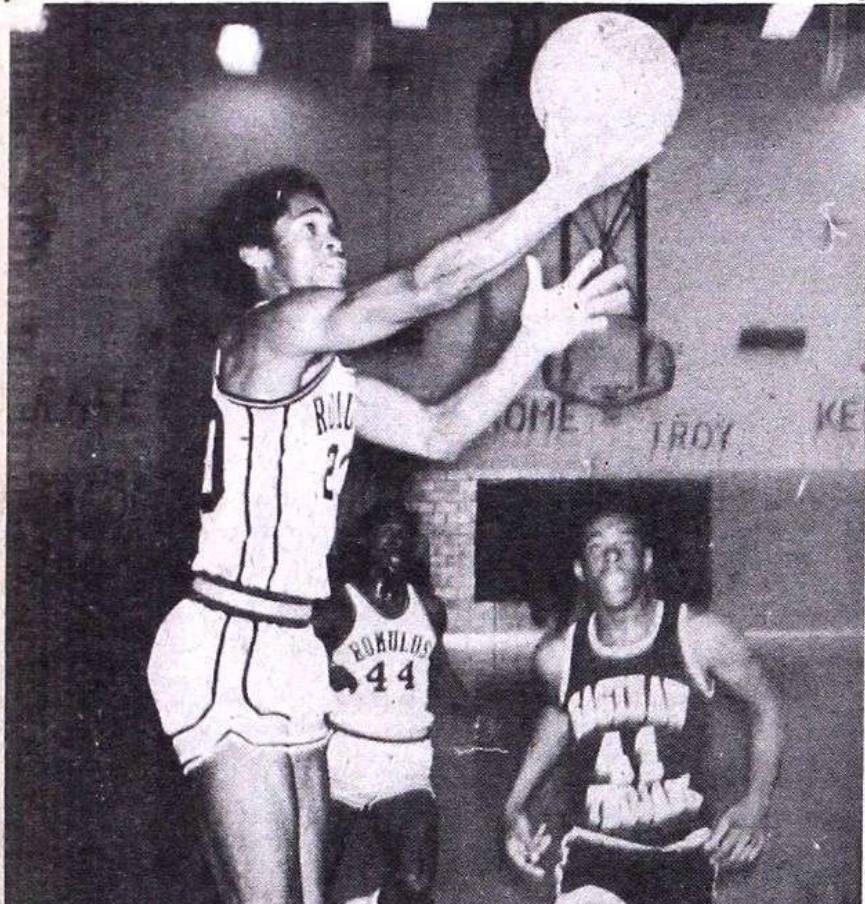

Long, who still resides in Romulus, is modest about his contribution to the teams best season in years.

"My job is to score points and all I try to do is the best job that I can. I think the whole team has played well this year and that is why we are winning," Long said.

JOHNNY LONG

Driving home '2' points

Glenn falls to North

A last half surge, sparked by Greg Gill who came up with five of his team high 13 points in the last period, helped Glenn overcome the deficit momentarily. The Westlanders led by one point with one minute to go because North put on the late rush to win.

Gill finished with 13 points and teammate Todd Gill tossed in 12. However, North's Tom Renard led all scorers with 17 and Mark Bowditch added 12.

Futurama's scoring went to Tom Bryans with one goal and two assists:

Barry Anderson and Dan Demers' tallied once with one assist while Dave Zielinski accounted for one goal. Rick Riedel received two assists and Ron Tyranski picked up one assist.

The skaters will be back in action Sunday night when Tasee Freez clashes with Electronics at 7:30 p.m. in the Westland Arena; the 9 p.m. game pits Futurama with Johnson Carbonic while All Sports Sports entertains league-leading Little Bill's at 10:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, over in Wayne, Family Heating and Brock's have an 8:30 p.m. date and at 10 p.m., Penny's plays Jake's.

Top-ranked Highland Park to entertain Romulus cagers

BY ERIC GEARNS
(Special Writer)

It was a long cold ride to Saginaw for Coach Al Wilkerson's Romulus Eagles, and Saginaw did nothing to make the ride home any warmer or shorter as they soundly defeated the Eagles 80-57. Saginaw took control early in the first quarter and went on to finish the period up by nine points, 22-13.

The Eagles made a small comeback in the second stanza outscoring the eighth ranked Vikings 16-11 on the strength of some strong play by Troy Gray, to narrow the Saginaw lead at halftime to 33-29.

The third quarter was the undoing for the Eagles.

Neither team could score early in the quarter and finally Saginaw broke the ice with a basket by 6'9" Lou Rainge. Saginaw's outstanding All State guard Kevin MacAdoo then stole the ball twice and converted both thefts into buckets.

From that point on it was all down hill for the Eagles as Saginaw outscored them 19-6 in the quarter and finished the game with a 27-19 fourth quarter margin to cinch the runaway victory.

Gray topped all scorers with 23 points while teammate Bobby Stewart added 19 for the Eagles, however, the Eagles could manage only seven points from their front line while Saginaw got 40 points from their big men.

Rainge led Saginaw with 18 points while MacAdoo and Deron Johnson added 16 and 14 respectively for the Vikings.

Things should get a little easier for the Eagles this week as they travel to Hamtramck on Friday to take on St. Florian. The rest will be short-lived, however, as they must travel to number one state ranked Highland Park next Tuesday before returning home to entertain Inkster Cherry Hill next Friday.

Wilkerson has yet to figure out what the problem is with his young ball club.

"We just can't get any consistency. We play very well one game and then completely fall apart the next. We aren't getting enough help off our front line and that is hurting us badly," said Wilkerson. "Another problem I'm sure is that we don't have any league title to shoot at and the incentive just doesn't seem to be there for the kids," he added.

Golden Gloves finals set

The Golden Gloves tournament finals will be fought at Schoolcraft College at 8 p.m. Saturday, February 27.

Sixteen bouts featuring Detroit and suburban finalists will determine this year's winners in the tournament that launched Joe Louis, Sugar Ray Robinson, Chuck Davey, Thomas Hearns and other local boxing greats.

Proceeds from the evening will help send the winners to the national Golden Gloves tournament in Kansas City at the end of March. Tickets are $7 ringside and $3 general admission.

Host Schoolcraft is providing a four-piece jazz ensemble to entertain prior to the matches and the National Anthem will be performed by the College's Madrigal Singers.

In addition to the News and the College, the event is being sponsored by the Detroit Golden Gloves Charities and the Livonia Boxing Club.

Schoolcraft is located on Haggerty Road, just west of I-275 and south of Seven Mile, in Livonia. For ticket information, telephone the Athletic Office at 591-6400, ext. 480.

Niemi blasts cage officials

Belleville coach riled after four starters foul out

"It was the poorest officiated game that I have been involved in during the 19 years I've been a coach."

That's how Belleville High coach Tom Niemi blasted the refs after his Tigers bowed to Livonia Bentley 63-57 in a Suburban 8 Conference basketball game Friday night.

"I feel that the officials have a responsibility out there to do their best, but there were some flagrant fouls called against us that were, in my opinion, inexcusable," Niemi added.

The loss left Belleville holding a 3-4 conference and a 4-10 over-all record on the season. The Tigers are scheduled to play Friday night at Allen Park, and they have a make-up game with league-leading Plymouth Salem on March 2. Sandwiched between the two conference games Belleville takes on Windsor Lowe on Tuesday at Belleville.

Bentley jumped out in front 17-7 after the first period thanks to a balanced scoring attack provided by Doug Gates and Mike McCorry, however, the Tigers replied with Reggie Grantham tossing in eight of his game high 17 points in the second quarter to close the gap to 27-23 before the intermission.

Outscored 18-12 in the third period, Belleville came back and held the edge 22-18, despite losing four of its five starters — Grantham, Kevin Saunderson, Sam Villa and Tim Thomas — to fouls. In fact, it was at the foul line where Bentley had the edge. The Bulldogs canned 21 of 34 charities as compared to the Tigers' 11 of 18 performance.

Belleville had the edge from the field 23-21 and had almost 20 more shots at the Donnelly to the wire by two-tenths of a second. McGue's winning time was posted as 23.4. He came back to be a double individual event winner when he won the 100-yard freestyle in 52.1.

Tim White grabbed a gold for his 59.1 performance in the 100-yard butterfly.

"Bentley hit on their first eight shots," Niemi pointed out, "and held a 17-2 lead before our kids came back. I want to say this about our players — they didn't quit, however, I feel they are not playing up to their potential. They are better than their record indicates and one of these nights they're really going to show someone out there what they can do."

Grantham, who has been the Tiger leader this season, scored 17 points, the game's high, while Saunderson chipped in 16. They were the only two Tiger cagers in double figures.

Bentley got 14 from Gates and 13 from McCorry who helped avenge an earlier loss to the local quintet.

Eighth-ranked Class A state power, Livonia Stevenson, ran over the Tigers 73-52 despite Grantham's game high 24-points. The flashy Belleville guard sank nine field goals and made six
